Banks Are Good.
Says G. B. S. to Bryan.
For War—For Health.
A "Socony Church".

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

A good business is banking on a stock ownership basis. It is not so good for clerks.

The First National bank of New York, with George F. Baker on his road to 90, at the head of it, pays a three months' dividend of 25 per cent —100 per cent a year. The price of the stock jumped $140 in a day.

However, if you don't happen to own bank stocks, don't be entirely discouraged. One good idea, born in your brain, independent of any board of directors, may make you more money than the value of any bank stock in the world.

Everything Henry Ford has is based on one idea. And he could buy the First National bank as easily as you buy a Ford car.

"Let us cultivate our garden," said old Voltaire. "Let us cultivate our little bank," says the modern financier. A bank pays better than a garden. The First National was established in 1863, with $200,000 of stock capital. The dividend now declared, for three months only, amounts to $2,500,000, at the rate of $10,000,000 a year. Quite a good return on $200,000.

The First National breaks all bank records up to date. But watch the National City bank and espy some of the combination banks with many branches, now run on modern "chain store" lines. They will surprise you.

George Bernard Shaw says what W. J. Bryan calls "fundamentalism" is really infantilism. That is a good word.

Shaw, in a discussion with Hillaire Belloc, another "concrete" style of mind, found an excellent comparison. Those that deny evolution, says he, think that the universe and life are like the oceans—always restless, doing nothing but drowning people, "killing, killing, killing."

"People who have no conception of evolution," says Shaw, "have no future, no hope."

That will annoy Mr. Bryan, firmly convinced that when he leaves Miami his next stop will be heaven, with a place in the front row, and a good, delightful view of Prof. Scopes, of Tennessee, George Bernard Shaw, Darwin and Voltaire, all burning up together, in a place where the "worm dieth not."

Austen Chamberlain, representing the British empire, complains of the amount of the league of nations spends on its health department. England has to pay her share.

HOOVER PLEADS FOR TEAM WORK

Urges Farmer, Labor, Railroad, Merchant to Co-operate.

OSKALOOSA, Ia., June 12.—A plea for co-operation among the fundamental economic groups—farmer, labor, railroad and merchant—was made here today by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, addressing the graduating class at Penn college.

Real progress in America, according to Hoover, is impossible until these groups are relieved of all justified feeling of injustice and oppression. He pointed out that the economic groups represent parts of a great co-operative society, which comprises the country's entire business fabric.

"Upon the basis of self-interest alone, if we are to have the maximum efficiency from labor, there must first be assurance that labor will have a fair share in the result of its effort," Hoover declared.

"If we are to have economical production, labor must give its best effort.

"It is not to the advantage of the farmer to drag down the high wage of the mechanic and thereby the consuming power for farm products.

"The railroads suffer most from depression in agriculture. The farmer loses most from crippling of the railways.

"The first need of manufacturers and merchants is increased buying power among the formers."

Tracing the development of labor unions, trade associations, commercial bodies, agricultural societies and employers organizations, Hoover asserted that these groups must learn that progress will not come from crushing the individual into a shapeless mass, but in giving him enlarged opportunity.

"They must learn to understand each other and not to fight," Hoover said.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Mrs. Rose Burns, 28, and her two sons Thomas, aged three years, and James, two years old, were burned to death early today in a fire which swept their apartment here following an explosion of undetermined origin.

Father Fails in Rescue Attempt.

James Burns, 31, a trolley inspector, told police he was awakened by the explosion to find his rooms in a blaze and smashed his way through a window.

When he recovered from his shock, he returned through the fire several times in ineffectual attempts to rescue his family.

The authorities were investigating a report that hops were being cooked on the kitchen stove in the Burns home.

Burns was treated for severe burns about the hands. It became hysterical when he learned his family was dead.

Maplewood to Ask Council Tonight to Extend Water Mains

A request for an extension of the city's water mains along St. Clair avenue, through what is known as Maplewood, will be presented to council tonight.

The petition urges that the mains be extended from the entrance to Riverview cemetery along St. Clair avenue to the Park Boulevard. Practically every resident along the road is pledged to attach his property to the line if the city acts. They ask a six-inch main be constructed.

The city limits end at a point just a few hundred feet north of the cemetery entrance.

A committee of the petitioners will likely appear before the solons.

The policy of the Water Works department in the past has been to extend the water mains to nay section where the return from water rents will net six percent interest on the investment.

Lisbon Marshal Recovers Ford Car Stolen Last Night

Marshal Roy Lewton, Lisbon, today recovered a Ford roadster belonging to Merill Danley, which was stolen from in front of Danley's home, College street, this city, after midnight.

Danley parked the car at 11:30 o'clock last night and knew nothing of the theft until called by the sheriff at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Two men, who are alleged to have driven the car through the square, were halted by Marshal Lewton, but stepped "on the gas" and fled.

A taxicab driver pursued them and, the thieves, realizing they were being overtaken, abandoned the car and took to the fields. The machine was not damaged.

Two Children Are Injured When Two Automobiles Crash

Car Driven by Joseph Tock, Grocer, Collides With Parked Machine on West Eighth Street.

Two children were injured when an automobile driven by Joseph Tock, West Ninth street grocer, crashed into a parked car, owned by U. S. Cunningham, May street, Insurance company superintendent, on West Eighth street at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Charles Tock, 9, Sustained injuries to his right leg when he was hurtled from his father's machine to the street. His sister, Nora 7, was cut about the head when she was hurled through the windshield. Both were removed to their home in the Miller ambulance.

Cunningham had stopped his automobile, headed east on the right side of the street near the West End Pottery, leaving the engine running while he occupied the driver's seat. Tock, accompanied by his wife and children, were traveling east on Eighth street. He lost control of the machine, and crashed into the rear end of the Cunningham car.

Mr. and Mrs. Tock were badly shaken up. Three other children in the car escaped unhurt. Both machines were badly damaged. Captain Conley made an investigation of the crash, but there were no arrests.

Cars driven by John Taylor, of the Park boulevard and Lester Rider crashed head-on on the Park Way road just above the Park Way filling station late last night. Taylor's car went over on its side, throwing the driver from his seat. Rider was coming down the hill and Taylor going up the grade when the cars met at a sharp bend in the road. Neither of the two drivers was hurt. The Taylor machine which lost a wheel and was damaged in other ways was taken to a garage by McElravy Brothers wrecking car.

MRS. GLADYS BONEY, FORMER LOCAL GIRL, SHOT; HUSBAND IS MISSING

Daughter of Mrs. Anna Freeland in Canton Hospital, Suffering From Wounds in Abdomen.

Mrs. Gladys Boney, 24, daughter of Mrs. Anna Freeland, Woodlawn avenue, is in the Mercy hospital, Canton, today suffering from two bullet wounds in the abdomen, alleged by the police to have been fired by her husband, Charles Boney, who is now a fugitive from justice.

Mrs. Boney and her husband conducted a confectionery at 1911 Tenth street, Canton. The shooting took place on the night of Sunday, May 24, in the family apartments which adjoins the store.

Boney took his wife to the hospital, stating that she had been shot by two strangers, who entered the store and demanded liquor. He declared that the men opened fire when Mrs. Boney refused their request.

When police arrived at the hospital a few minutes afterwards to question Boney he had disappeared. The authorities claim that Boney shot his wife during a quarrel. Bullets, which missed their mark, were found in the door and the walls of the room where the quarrel occurred.

Surgeons have removed one of the bullets which struck the woman, but the other has not been located. Although her condition is still regarded as serious, it is believed that she will recover. A charge of shooting with intent to kill has been filed against Boney.

Mrs. Freeland was called to Canton by the shooting.

Mrs. Boney resided in East Liverpool until her marriage about four years ago. She and her husband went to housekeeping in Canton, but later moved to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. They returned to Canton a few months ago. They have no children.

DR. LEON TUCKER EXPOUNDS TRUTHS OF BOOK OF ACTS IN UNIQUE WAY

Two Sermons Here On What Pastors Ask School Board

Two pastors will discuss from their pulpits Sunday evening the subject: "What the Ministerial Association Has Requested of the School Board in the Matter of Religious Instruction in the Public Schools."

They are Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. B. R. Johnson, of the Church of Christ.

They made this announcement today.

WOLLAM SEEKS PLACE IN RACE

Goodyear Balloon Aide and Pilot Landed on Ship.

BRUSSELS, June 12.— The possibility that W. T. Van Orman, of Akron, Ohio, pilot of the Goodyear III may be given second place in the Gordon Bennett cup race appeared heightened today with the assurance of the Belgian Areo club that his protest of disqualification would be studied under article 123 of the Gordon Bennett race rules.

That article disqualifies all contestants who came down on the water, receiving aid from a boat. Van Orman and his aide, C. K. Wollam, former East Liverpool, Ohio youth, landed on the deck of the steamer Vaterland.

"I caught my guide rope in the steamer's shrouds and Woolam and I pulled the Balloon down to the deck unaided", Van Orman said.

"My feet were not even wet. I have turned in to the aero club affidavits from the captain of the steamer proving my landing was regular, for which I claim I should be classed as second, with the Belgian balloon piloted by Veenstra first."

Thirty Government Vessels Search Sea Off New Jersey Resort for Youthful Victims as Merry Excursion of Social Club is Turned Into Voyage of Horror.

CAPTAIN OF VESSEL IS ARRESTED PENDING INQUIRY INTO TRAGEDY

Burning Cigarette Carelessly Tossed on Top of Gasoline Supply Tank is Believed to Have Caused Explosion as Young People Dance and Laugh on Way to Shore.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—Thirty government vessels were searching the waters off Atlantic City today for several young men and women believed missing following a mysterious explosion and fire which destroyed the pleasure yacht Crystal shortly before midnight last night, burned one girl to death, seriously burned thirteen young men and women and turned a merry excursion into a voyage of horror.

The dead:

LILLIAN McKNIGHT, Pleasantville, N. J.

The injured:

Mildred Mack, Jack Linder, John Hanun, Ralph English, Estelle Banning, Warren Dilks, Dick McGlynn, Curtis Lyle, Dick Myers, Lawrence Price, Mary Toner, Katherine Arnold and Martha Weiss.

Captain William Young, who commanded the yacht, was formally arrested and released under $2,000 bond pending a government inquiry to determine the cause of the tragedy.

Anniversary Celebration

All of those aboard the Crystal were members of the social independent club and lived at Pleasantville and Northfield, N. J., towns adjoining Atlantic City. All were young, their ages ranging from 15 to 21 years.

The cldb hired the Crystal, a cabin gasoline yacht, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Edward Connors, its owner here, for a sail to commemorate the anniversary of the organization.

It was planned to go out about five miles and to remain there while the young people danced. Later it was decided to see whether any vessels were anchored in "Rum Row".

The return voyage from "Rum Row" began about 9 o'clock. When the Crystal was about six miles off Atlantic City, and ukleles were strumming and merriment was at its height a terrific explosion shook the craft. What caused it no member of the outing could definitely say. It was a theory among some of the members that a burning cigarette was carelessly tossed on top of the yacht's gasoline supply tank.

One Killed and 40 Injured in Rioting as Mob Sweeps Down Upon Guards at British Steel Works.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 12. — Four hundred government troops were due to arrive today in New Waterford, N. Chief of Police Noble of New Waterford had both legs broken and his head battered, but is expected to live.

The mob swept down on the power plant when the police who were guarding it had exhausted their ammunition. A score of police were captured and were dragged through the streets, kicked and clubbed. After seizing the power plant, strikers raided the company's store, carried off all provisions and clothing and set fire to the building.

WOLLAM SEEKS PLACE IN RACE

Goodyear Balloon Aide and Pilot Landed on Ship.

BRUSSELS, June 12.— The possibility that W. T. Van Orman, of Akron, Ohio, pilot of the Goodyear III may be given second place in the Gordon Bennett cup race appeared heightened today with the assurance of the Belgian Aero club that his protest of disqualification would be studied under article 128 of the Gordon Bennett race rules.

That article disqualifies all contestants who came down on the water, receiving aid from a boat. Van Orman and his aide, C. K. Wollam, former East Liverpool, Ohio youth, landed on the deck of the steamer Vaterland.

"I caught my guide rope in the steamer's shrouns and Woolam and I pulled the Balloon down to the deck unaided", Van Orman said.

"My feet were not even wet. I have turned in to the aero club affidavits from the captain of the steamer proving my landing was regular, for which I claim I should be classed as second, with the Belgian balloon piloted by Veenstra first."

L. T. CAPEHART AND J. S. WILSON QUALIFY FOR MAYOR'S RACE

Press Kerr Seeks Council Presidency on G. O. P. Ticket.

SOLON LIST GROWS

Miss Finney and A. J. Bostock File for Court Clerkship.

The race for the Republican nomination for mayor of East Liverpool became four-cornered today with the entry of Lewis T. Capeheart, president of council, and ex-Mayor Joseph S. Wilson.

Capeheart, who is now serving his first term as president of council, was councilman-at-large for two terms. He is engaged in the tinning and roofing business at the foot of Market street.

Wilson served three terms as chief executive of the city. He was not a candidate for re-election two years ago when Charles Brown was renominated.

Mayor Brown and John T. Leighue filed their declarations of candidacy for the G. O. P. mayoralty nomination with the election board about a week ago.

Councilmanic Candidates.

N. P. Kerr, now serving as a councilman-at-large, has tossed his hat in the ring for the council presidency. It is understood J. R. Chambers, first ward councilman, and James Larcombe, second ward councilman, will file for the same office before midnight.

Three more candidates—two Republicans and one Democrat—have qualified for the nomination for fourth ward council. They are Charles Risinger, Chestnut street, store manager, and D. Frank Harding, May street, superintenednt of the International Pulp Stone company, both Republicans, and James S. Godwin, West Eighth street potter, Democrat. Fred Eardley, present fourth ward council member, expected to file for renomination. George A. Hughes, who was defeated for the nomination two years ago, has also qualified for the nomination on the Republican ticket.

Edgar H. Heddleston, Ravine street potter, is the first to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for second ward councilman. There were no candidates at noon for councilman from the first ward, either on the Republican or Democratic tickets.

Another of the present three councilmen-at-large also filed for renomination today. He is Charles Hayes, Republican, East End. Thomas Farrall is also seeking the renomination for a second term.

Although the office will not be filled until the November election, two aspirants for clerk of the municipal court

SEVERAL MISSING AS BLAST WRECKS YACHT IN WATERS OF ATLANTIC

Thirty Government Vessels Search Sea Off New Jersey Resort for Youthful Victims as Merry Excursion of Social Club is Turned Into Voyage of Horror.

CAPTAIN OF VESSEL IS ARRESTED PENDING INQUIRY INTO TRAGEDY

Burning Cigarette Carelessly Tossed on Top of Gasoline Supply Tank is Believed to Have Caused Explosion as Young People Dance and Laugh on Way to Shore.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—Thirty government vessels were searching the waters off Atlantic City today for several young men and women believed missing following a mysterious explosion and fire which destroyed the pleasure yacht Crystal shortly before midnight last night, burned one girl to death, seriously burned thirteen young men and women and turned a merry excursion into a voyage of horror.

The dead:

LILLIAN McKNIGHT, Pleasantville, N. J.

The injured:

Mildred Mack, Jack Linder, John Hanun, Ralph English, Estelle Banning, Warren Dilks, Dick McGlynn, Curtis Lyle, Dick Myers, Lawrence Price, Mary Toner, Katherine Arnold and Martha Weiss.

Captain William Young, who commanded the yacht, was formally arrested and released under $2,000 bond pending a government inquiry to determine the cause of the tragedy.

Anniversary Celebration

All of those aboard the Crystal were members of the social independent club and lived at Pleasantville and Northfield, N. J., towns adjoining Atlantic City. All were young, their ages ranging from 15 to 21 years.

The cldb hired the Crystal, a cabin gasoline yacht, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Edward Connors, its owner here, for a sail to commemorate the anniversary of the organization.

It was planned to go out about five miles and to remain there while the young people danced. Later it was decided to see whether any vessels were anchored in "Rum Row".

The return voyage from "Rum Row" began about 9 o'clock. When the Crystal was about six miles off Atlantic City, and ukleles were strumming and merriment was at its height a terrific explosion shook the craft. What caused it no member of the outing could definitely say. It was a theory among some of the members that a burning cigarette was carelessly tossed on top of the yacht's gasoline supply tank.

With the reverberation of the ex-

110 KIWANIANS ATTEND INTER-CITY MEET; NOVEL PROGRAM IS GIVEN

Fifty-four Wellsville Club Members are Guests at Dinner in Larkins Annex Thursday Night.

One hundred and ten members of the East Liverpool and Wellsville Kiwanis clubs and their guests attended an inter-city meeting in the Larkins annex, Market street, last night when the program was given by the visitors.

In the absence of Dr. G. E. Lewis, president of the local club, first vice president C. C. Cline presided. Music during the dinner was furnished by the Harmony Kings, a Wellsville orchestra of boys and girls. The Wellsville delegation, who made the trip in automobiles, numbered 54.

Attendance prizes were awarded Frank G. Jones, of the local club, and Leonard Aughinbaugh, of Wellsville.

After welcoming the visitors, Mr. Cline introduced Clearance Vogel, president of the Wellsville club, who, in turn, presented Dr. J. M. King, immediate past president of the club and chairman of the inter-city relations committee.

Thomas McClelland, song leader for the visitors, led the club singing and included a number of parodies on members of the local club, including Dr. Clyde Larkins, Walter B. Hill Fred George, Mayor Charles Brown, Harry Fleming and Charles C. Ashbaugh. Applause and laughter greeted each stanza of the song.

John Diemer, Wellsville insurance agent and comedian, gave a ten-minute talk in which he told short stories. The Kiwanis Glee club, composed of about a dozen vocalists, pre-

400 TROOPS CALLED AS STRIKING MINERS SEIZE NOVA SCOTIA PLANT

One Killed and 40 Injured in Rioting as Mob Sweeps Down Upon Guards at British Steel Works.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 12. — Four hundred government troops were due to arrive today in New Waterford, N. S., where 2,000 striking miners were in possession of the power plant of the British Empire Steel Corporation, following bloodshed and rioting in which one miner was killed and 40 miners and company police were injured, ten of them seriously.

Chief of Police Noble of New Waterford had both legs broken and his head battered, but is expected to live.

The mob swept down on the power plant when the police who were guarding it had exhausted their ammunition. A score of police were captured and were dragged through the streets, kicked and clubbed. But for the intervention of two Catholic priests it was believed some of the men would have been killed.

After seizing the power plant, strikers raided the company's store, carried off all provisions and clothing and set fire to the building.

PROF. R. H. THOMPSON, MEMORY EXPERT, TELLS HOW HE DOES IT

When Man's Name is Spoken, he Tries to Associate it With His Face, Figure or Something About Him.

"When a man's name is spoken to me I try to associate it with his face, his figure or something about him. When I get that picture, firmly fixed in my mind, I can easily remember him."

This is the whole secret of the "remarkable memory" of Prof. Robert H. Thompson, founder of the National Educational Institute of New York City, who appeared before members of the Rotary club at their meeting this week, and who is now spending a few days in East Liverpool.

This was his answer to a Review-Tribune reporter's question: "How do you do it?" Rotarians marveled at his mental ability, many believing that he worked some sort of a trick. Proof of his memory, however, was established when, after each member had pronounced his name, Prof. Thompson, then starting at one end of the table repeated each person's name, making only one or two errors and in this case where he had failed to hear the name distinctly pronounced.

"Eighty-five percent of the things we learn come through our eyes," he said. "I have built my ability to retain mental pictures on this fact. I make no effort to memorize a man's name. When a man's name is given me my ear just passes it to my brain and it goes to my eye and my eye is what I use.

Thompson has a nation-wide reputation as a memory expert. Henry Ford has called him "the man with a million dollar memory." President Wilson once told him that if he could remember names as well as Mr. Thompson he would be a great politician.

On another occasion Thompson and Billy Sunday were introduced to 20 people. Sunday attempted to repeat their names and got every one wrong. Thompson named them correctly and won the admiration of the evangelist.

"Character reading is an exact science," Thompson says. "A man's life is an open book before him. He has lectured in all parts of the country on memory training and has made analyses of character and tendency of individuals toward different activities.

During his appearance before the Rotary club, Thompson selected four men, whom he declared to represent different types, making a separate analysis of each.

His first subject, having what he termed a pear-shaped face and head, was the mental type. This type of man, Mr. Thompson said, thinks quickly, reasons logically and loves ideals; he is inclined to literary and detail work, is interested in art, music, science and philosophy.

The next man was the motive type, he said, a man of muscle and bone. He possesses a square head, face and body, which denotes practicability. This type craves activity and motion; the greatest speakers, orators and reformers are this kind of men.

The third class are those with a round face, head and body. They are bankers and of the executive type. They are jolly, good natured men who have well balanced judgment. Some of the greatest financiers of the country show fleshy and vital development, including Morgan, Stilman, Ryan, Hill, Belmont and others.

The fourth type, analyzed by Prof. Thompson, was the brunette type. This kind of a man is quiet, conservative and fine in detail work. He is usually inclined to concentrate, to specialize and persevere and to attend to details with painstaking care. The greatest organization, Prof. Thompson has ever met, he says, was that of brunettes for details and administration and blondes for executive and organization work, making an ideal combination.

BRITISH LAY CRIME INCREASE TO ADOPTION OF AMERICAN METHODS

Motor Bandits are Operating, and Causing as Much Excitement as Did Dick Turpin.

LONDON, June — Little by little England is being Americanized.

Even English criminals are adopting American methods. Motor bandits are operating in England, and causing as much excitement as did Dick Turpin in the days gone by.

An official statement on crimes recently noted thtat armed robberies, heretofore but rarely known in England, were on the increase and that the use of motor cars for crime had also been adopted. The official statement described this increase in this sort of crime as "an adoption of American methods."

There is no doubt but what the statistics were quite accurate, for since their publication there have been several exciting ventures by motor car bandits, the latest one being the removal of a safe by automobile from a postoffice, with about $6,000 worth of stamps and cash.

Until the past few months Englishmen have never dreamed of motorized bandits, except insofar as they have heard of their depredations in the United States. The bandit was only a moving picture character to the Englishman until a few months ago. Now the lads with guns and automobiles are active. A recent capture showed that nearly all of those captured, who had been operating as bandits, were unemployed men.

Vigorous steps are being taken by the police to cope with the new form of crime.

Roots and Herbs Used in Medicine

The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., is recognized as the greatest user of roots and herbs in the world. Over half a million pounds are used annually in manufacturing Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These herbs are gathered with the greatest care at the season of the year when the medicinal elements which they contain are at their best. This, in part, accounts for the wonderful efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring ailing women to health and strength.

The Resas Tone-A-Dyne

The Set With the Tone Modulator.

List Price $78.00

Sale Price $35.00

THE perfected RESAS TONE-A-DYNE embodies every advantageous feature claimed for any 5 tube set, plus the Tone Modulator, a feature that is to be had only with the TONE-A-DYNE.

As its name implies, the Tone Modulator controls the tone and volume at all times and under all operating conditions. Nothing complicated or difficult about it. Simply a turn of the knob and the musical or vocal selection assumes its most pleasant volume.

The Tone-A-Dyne is non-radiating. Annoyance from squeals and howls is eliminated.

The selectivity of the Tone-A-Dyne is almost uncanny. With local stations broadcasting on a wave length only 5 meters away, station WHAS (Louisville) has been readily tuned in without interference on a short indoor aerial.

The Tone-A-Dyne is so designed that it can be operated by anyone without previous experience. The three tuning dials are acurately calibrated and matched so that their settings practically correspond. There is only one filament control, and this can be set at the best operating point on reception of the first station. A snap switch controls all tubes. Clearly marked binding posts are provided in the rear for all connections.

The perfected TONE-A-DYNE is the ideal receiver. West Coast broadcasting stations are heard regularly in the East in this instrumet. It can be used on even a small indoor antenna, and on local receiving, it functions with a ground only.

The New Entente

England and France at last have arrived at what Aristide Briand calls a "perfect entente" regarding their German policy. The outstanding fact is their agreement upon a security pact which Germany is expected to sign.

Britain agrees to come to France's aid with all her military power, by land, water and air, in case of German aggression against France or German violation of the neutral zone established in the Rhine district. This is a revival of the three-power security pact arranged at Versailles by President Wilson, except that it leaves America out now and takes in Belgium.

This pact is linked with the league of nations covenant. Germany is to be admitted to the league, as originally contemplated, and to be bound both by the league covenant and by the guarantees of this new treaty.

The allies evidently figure that it is better to admit Germany to association with the other powers, so they will be better able to keep an eye on her. Germany will probably accept for the sake of escaping from her ostracism and getting back into international councils as an equal.

This may not insure European peace; but if it does not, it is doubtful whether anything else could. The best prospect lies in conciliation and co-operation.

Two Governors

"What New York needs," says Governor Smith, "is two governors. One would stay at the capital in Albany. The other, supplied with half a dozen dinner coats, would do the hand-shaking and speech-making. Then we could say, 'Let there be no sizable gathering in the state without the presence of the governor.' If you ask me which governor I would be, I should say the one at Albany, because I would live longer."

It was meant humorously, yet there is an undercurrent of seriousness in the proposal that any holder of an important public office will appreciate. As Governor Smith implies, the social functions that an executive in his position is expected to assume are likely to be more crushing than the business functions. No man can attend adequately to both. This is true of all governorships. It is still more tragically true of the presidency.

What Governor Smith suggests for governors is really coming about with regard to the chief executive job of many cities. Often the business duties are given to a city manager and the formal, social duties to a mayor, who has little else to do than represent the city in an ornamental way. That works pretty well, when the duties are so clearly divided that there is no clash, and the right type of man is chosen for each.

An Old-World Miracle

"Italian trains run on time," reports an American tourist. "Credit is given to Mussolini."

Thus briefly is a miracle related. Who, under any previous Italian government, ever heard of Italian trains being habitually on time?

The tourist in the old days found Italian leisure all the more notable by contrast with German efficiency. German trains, whatever they may be now, were always on time in the pre-war days. Such was the promptness, order and system of that country that at crossings the gate-keepers lowered and raised their gates by schedule, without looking to see whether the trains were coming or not, and nearly always they hit it on the dot.

In France, trains might or might not be on time. In Italy, it was something to wonder at when the arrived or departed on time. There was one country, however, surpassing Italy in that respect. Tourists averred that no Spanish train was ever known to be on time. Also that there was an authentic case of a passenger train that had got lost and no trace of it was ever discovered.

Caesarism or no Caesarism, it is a great achievement to make Italian trains run on time. And what matter if it be Mussolini time? Mussolini will soon square that by running the sun, moon and stars.

A Brighter Funeral

To those who take the sting from death, add gratefully the name of Mrs. Margaret T. Rose, of Little Rock, Ark.

Dying, Mrs. Rose left these notable instructions:

That her funeral should be gloomy.

That the singers should "sing in their natural voices."

That half the pews at the funeral services should be reserved for Negroes, because "they have done much for me, and kept me from drudgery all my life, and I have never received an act of unkindness from one of them."

That her children should not "mope and stay at home" after she was gone, but should "go out and brighten the world."

Of all these excellent things, perhaps the one that will stick longest in the mind is the injunction that those singers should "sing in their natural voices."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 12. — Thoughts while strolling around New York: Inspiration Point on the Drive. Parked cars with dreamy couples holding hands. Tattered rags of clouds float by. A purple haze over the Palisades. Dancing sun rays on the Hudson's ripple.

And down in Wall street harried men are grubbing for dollars. Roadside photographers. Bronzed ladies on galloping mounts. Frank Vanderlip, the banker, in his limousine. And the hedged gulley where motorcycle cops pop out to tell you to draw up to the curb.

Grant's tomb and the itinerant postcard hawkers. W. H. Hearst's apartment house home. The statues are still out in front of Amelia Bingham's. Wonder who scrubs them. Whatever became of Mike Donlin? Children playing where war-bonneted Indians used to lurk.

A grim stone house hidden by flaming ivy. The home of a writer of mystery tales. The west 72nd street drive to Central Park. Jovial Big John, the traffic cop. Children feeding timid squirrels and old men feeding pigeons.

Ethical schools. The Maine monument. The fringe of mid-town architecture. Noble spires, gilded towers and clear white marble facades, flung like a dancer's shawl. Cultural ferment stirring under militant mediocrity and comic ideals.

Aristocratic loungers in the Lotus Club. A group of health farm neurotics seeing the town in a private bus. The boys used to see it only at night. The row of fortune tellers, crystal gazers and voodoo doctors near Columbus Circle.

The white frizzed darkey who plays "blues" on a mouth organ. Wish I could play an accordion. Young Griff, the pugilist, asleep in a haliway. A silent group in front of a funeral parlor. Cellar ice shops and fire escapes flapping with wet wash. The stroll is over.

This may be a milk-sop age with young men wearing 'kerchiefs in their cuffs and all that, but there is a throw back to the red corpuscled days of yore in a fly speckled drug store window sign on Broome street. It reads: "Black eye specialist on duty after midnight." There used to be a barber shop in the Furious Forties that specialized in moused optics. There was a touch of humor in a sign it displayed reading: "Black eyes treated on Saturday night by appointment only." That was gala night.

One of the old Broadway rounders declares he has not seen a fist fight in five years. "Just when you think they are going to swing from the ankle," he says, "they embrace and snap in to a waltz."

A society man disposed of the contents of his carriage house recently at private auction. There were high seated traps, Victorias, breaks, Whitechapel carts, cane phaetons and the line. It was estimated the original collection cost something like $10,000 and it sold for less than $300. Most of them were bought for Bermuda, where automobiles are not permitted.

Those hardy iron-hands who make up the noisy claque at opera are frequenters of a cafe in West 39th street. Summer is the off season for their unusual talents, but they must live or think they must. So they act as barkers and spielers for Coney Island attractions.

And, by the way, here is the ad of a spieler, who seeks an engagement, in a theatrical week: "Never hoarse in 20 years. Can bell-wether Rubes and hold the slickers. Kept two ticket sellers busy on last engagement. Have Tuxedo."

A Great Electric Plant.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—When the new plant of the New York Edison company, now under construction at Fourteenth street and East river, is completed the metropolis will have not only the largest electric service company in the world but the world's largest electric generating station.

With this addition the central stations of New York City will be capable of generating as much current as was produced in all France last year, and France is said to be the best lighted country in Europe. The new plant will have twice the capacity of the one at Gennevilliers, just outside Paris, which is the largest in Europe, and it will be able to produce more electricity than the projected power development at Muscle Shoals.

At its maximum it can generate 700,000 kilowatts, or approximately 1,000,000 horsepower, which would be sufficient to light at least 3,000,000 six-room houses, and it would be capable of meeting the electricity requirements of any state in the United States except New York. It will bring the electrical generating equipment on Manhattan alone up to an aggregate such that it could light the homes, factories, public buildings and streets of all New York state outside New York City.

The magnitude of this great aggregation of power is graphically illustrated by linking it to a team of 2,000,000 horses all harnessed to one load.

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1. All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.
   If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.

2. All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.
   This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in three years.

3. Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.
   The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4. Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.
   It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of America, whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

The New Entente

England and France at last have arrived at what Aristide Briand calls a "perfect entente" regarding their German policy. The outstanding fact is their agreement upon a security pact which Germany is expected to sign.

Britain agrees to come to France's aid with all her military power, by land, water and air, in case of German aggression against France or German violation of the neutral zone established in the Rhine district. This is a revival of the three-power security pact arranged at Versailles by President Wilson, except that it leaves America out now and takes in Belgium.

This pact is linked with the league of nations covenant. Germany is to be admitted to the league, as originally contemplated, and to be bound both by the league covenant and by the guarantees of this new treaty.

The allies evidently figure that it is better to admit Germany to association with the other powers, so they will be better able to keep an eye on her. Germany will probably accept for the sake of escaping from her ostracism and getting back into international councils as an equal.

This may not insure European peace; but if it does not, it is doubtful whether anything else could. The best prospect lies in conciliation and co-operation.

Two Governors

"What New York needs," says Governor Smith, "is two governors. One would stay at the capital in Albany. The other, supplied with half a dozen dinner coats, would do the hand-shaking and speech-making. Then we could say, 'Let there be no sizable gathering in the state without the presence of the governor.' If you ask me which governor I would be, I should say the one at Albany, because I would live longer."

It was meant humorously, yet there is an undercurrent of seriousness in the proposal that any holder of an important public office will appreciate. As Governor Smith implies, the social functions that an executive in his position is expected to assume are likely to be more crushing than the business functions. No man can attend adequately to both. This is true of all governorships. It is still more tragically true of the presidency.

What Governor Smith suggests for governors is really coming about with regard to the chief executive job of many cities. Often the business duties are given to a city manager and the formal, social duties to a mayor, who has little else to do than represent the city in an ornamental way. That works pretty well, when the duties are so clearly divided that there is no clash, and the right type of man is chosen for each.

An Old-World Miracle

"Italian trains run on time," reports an American tourist. "Credit is given to Mussolini."

Thus briefly is a miracle related. Who, under any previous Italian government, ever heard of Italian trains being habitually on time?

The tourist in the old days found Italian leisure all the more notable by contrast with German efficiency. German trains, whatever they may be now, were always on time in the pre-war days. Such was the promptness, order and system of that country that at crossings the gate-keepers lowered and raised their gates by schedule, without looking to see whether the trains were coming or not, and nearly always they hit it on the dot.

In France, trains might or might not be on time. In Italy, it was something to wonder at when the arrived or departed on time. There was one country, however, surpassing Italy in that respect. Tourists averred that no Spanish train was ever known to be on time. Also that there was an authentic case of a passenger train that had got lost and no trace of it was ever discovered.

Caesarism or no Caesarism, it is a great achievement to make Italian trains run on time. And what matter if it be Mussolini time? Mussolini will soon square that by running the sun, moon and stars.

A Brighter Funeral

To those who take the sting from death, add gratefully the name of Mrs. Margaret T. Rose, of Little Rock, Ark.

Dying, Mrs. Rose left these notable instructions:

That her funeral should be gloomy.

That half the pews at the funeral services should be reserved for Negroes, because "they have done much for me, and kept me from drudgery all my life, and I have never received an act of unkindness from one of them."

That her children should not "mope and stay at home" after she was gone, but should "go out and brighten the world."

Of all these excellent things, perhaps the one that will stick longest in the mind is the injunction that those singers should "sing in their natural voices."

Chicago barbers have started calling themselves "chirotonsors," which seems to be a mongrel, highbrow word meaning "hand-barber." Glad to know, anyway, that Chicago barbers cut hair with their hands instead of their feet.

UNION LEADER IS CONVICTED

Van Bittner Adjudged Guilty of Contempt by Judge.

Van A. Bittner, chief international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, in Northern West Virginia, was adjudged guilty of contempt of court by Judge I. G. Lazzelle in Monongahela county circuit court yesterday and was sentenced to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of $500. His counsel, T. C. Townsend, of Charleston, immediately served notice of an appeal, and Bittner was released on bond of $2,000.

Bittner was charged with violating an injunction issued by Judge Lazzelle on April 27, last, on petition of the Continental Coal company restraining him, other officers and members of the United Mine Workers and other defendants from unlawful interference with the open shop operation of the Continental mine. The specific charge against him was that a mass meeting in Fairmont on May 3, he had made a speech in which he spoke disrespectively of Judge Lazzelle and counselled his hearers to violate the injunction order.

Bittner, in testifying in his own behalf, declared that he had not been served with a notice of a restraining order until May 4; that he had no knowledge of the injunction when he spoke at Fairmont and that he has not spoken disrespectfully of Judge Lazzelle or counselled anybody to disregard any injunction order.

In his decision, Judge Lazzelle declared that he could not accept as credible the testimony of Bittner that he was ignorant of the Continental injunction when he made his speech in Fairmont on May 3. It might have been possible for him not to have heard about it, the court said, but it was "decidedly improbable."

"If I believe that Van Bittner was ignorant of the injunction," Judge Lazzelle said, "I must also believe that his chief lieutenants were disloyal, and I cannot believe that."

Testimony in the case had shown that notices of the injunction had been served on several of the international representatives in this field on April 30, and that some of them were on the stage in the Fairmont theater when Bittner delivered his address.

Good Fellows!

Competition is the life of business—when it is clean. Unfair competition is the destroyer of public confidence. We simply point out this basic truth for the benefit of those who are endeavoring to cash in on the other fellow's reputation.

Cut throat price wars never paid anybody, brothers, and hurt many.

The moral is do not imitate; walk on your own feet.

The American public soon learns to know the four-flusher and generally stays away from him for obvious reasons.

Bank It!

This phrase I borrow from our esteemed friend Henry, for the advice he gave was never timelier than during our 34th Anniversary. Note the heading of this ad. $100,000 in merchandise is to be sold for approximately $66,000. A saving of $34,000. Bank it!

FIND SHEPHERD CASE WITNESS

Robert White Returns to Chicago to Testify.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Robert White, missing witness in the trial of William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of "Billy" McClintock, walked into the state's attorney's office this morning. He was accompanied by his wife and child.

The drama in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's courtroom today featured the cross-examination of Alexander Reichmann, lawyer and co-guardian of the millionaire orphan, by Attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien counsel for Shepherd.

Shepherd's attorneys were prepared for a bitter grilling of the lawyer held to be long a foe of Shepherd and who was the principal part yesterday in State's Aattorney Robert E. Crowe's attempt to prove a motive for the "typhoid murder" he laid at Shepherd's door.

Another big crowd gathered for the second day of testimony. Bitter clashes between counsel marked yesterday's proceedings.

Shepherd came into the courtroom smiling.

TODAY

$175,000, and this year threatens to spend $250,000.

That amount during the war would have been fired off on any front in wasted metal and a few destroyed lives in half a minute.

Our civilization is shown in the fact that nations united were willing to spend two hundred thousand million dollars on war and object to spending $250,000 on health.

Dr. Fosdick, a "modernist," who goes for to suggest that Jonah might have been smothered or even digested in the whale's belly, is chosen pastor of the Rockefeller church in New York.

That agitates Dr. Straton, "fundamentalist," who knows that the whale did swallow Jonah. Dr. Straton calls Dr. Fosdick the clergyman of the "Socony church," stirring up a quarrel shocking to laymen.

"Socony," you know, is made up of Standard Oil Co. of New York. How is it that a fundamentalist, angry when you deny the whale-Jonah part of the Bible, allows himself to disregard completely the part about turning the other cheek.

President Coolidge, returning from the northwest after a most enthusiastic reception, is happy, having seen in one day more American people than any President ever saw before in one day. He is convinced "that the northwest returns the compliment, and believes that "Coolidge is patriotic," so everybody is happy.

It is just as well to admit that all Americans are patriotic, making certain allowances for diferences in patriotism.

Some gentlemen believe that patriotism consists in seeing to it that big corporations are enabled to pay big dividends.

Others think patriotism consists in taring down the big corporations and reducing them to grief. Both are wrong.

The Riffians are fighting against the French and Spanish combined, with desperate courage, in a fight that originally was against the Spaniards. Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian leader, is an intelligent man, and must possess real generalship to have dealt as he did with the Spaniards, as brave fighters as any in the world.

At present, the French and Spanish air forces are uniting, and that attack even the courage of the Arabs, defending their rights in their own land, will find it hard to meet. Courage and patriotism cannot conquer science, fighting from the iar.

sented a songfest with Thomas McClelland as director and Alex Wineswig as accompanist.

Thomas Turner, a monologist, was one of the big hits of the program, with his jokes and stories. He was followed by S. E. Daw, superintendent of the Wellsville schools and secretary of the Wellsville club, who gave a short address on "The Marks of Kiwanis."

Plea for High School Grid Game.

"Kiwanis has great spiritual and social values," Mr. Daw said. "Kiwanis will leave its mark on the business man who accepts and practices its principles.

"The first mark of a Kiwanian is that he be educated in the organization's ideals. The most common failure is the failure of a member to grow. We have too many in the organization who are content to have their names on the membership roll and nothing else.

"The second mark of Kiwanian is that he must be a gentelman. A Kiwanian does not boast; he is content to do his best and let the world be the judge. A true Kiwanian is a man of his word.

"The third and final mark of a Kiwanian is that he must be a good citizen. He must be tolerant, he must be an enemy to sensationalism that seeks to cause trouble and be conservative at all times. Kiwanis is making history and it is up to each and every member of every club to determine what that history is to be."

Dr. King extended members of the local club an invitation to come to Wellsville for a return party sometime during the month of July.

In closing the meeting, Mr. Cline urged that the two clubs get behind a movement to restore friendly athletic relations between the high schools in order to book the Thanksgiving Day football game this year. His suggestion met with hearty applause from members of both clubs.

En Route To Arkansas

Having just completed a lengthy series of meetings in the First Presbyterian church in New Castle, Pa., and facing a long jump from here to Harding, Ark., following constant services all winter and spring since starting out in Buffalo, N. Y., last fall the entire party admitted fatigue but lessend in no wise, despite this handicap, the enthusiasm of the start of their work in East Liverpool.

"I did not come to your city to complain," asserted Dr. Tucker in explaining the situation and details of his plans while here, but to explain. My business is evangelization. So I come to talk to you of Biblical evangelists, not of sanitation or higher education but that which makes for salvation."

Introduced by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of hte church, with whom he had held meetings while the former was located in Sandusky, Dr. Tucker in turn presented the various aides, including Mrs. Jessie McKee Coons, of Long Beach, Cal., who will promote prayer while here and the mother of the Miss Coons the young harpist, who it was said, qualifies as the "baby of the party" notwithstanding her skill with the delicate instrument she has elected to play.

Preceding Dr. Tucker's exposition "Nearer My God to Thee" and variations were given on the harp by Miss Coons. Miss Young, viloinist, responded with "I Need Thee Every Hour" and Miss Schmidt sang in her lyric soprano, accompanied by harp and violin, "O, My Lord, Bless Thee Jehovah," from the sextette of Lucia.

Special Musical Program

At the conclusion of Dr. Tucker's discourse he, utilizing a guitar, Miss Coons a banjo and Miss Young her violin contributed with them the song, "Marvelous Grace." As an encore they responded with a southern spiritual, "My Precious Lord" in which Miss Schmidt joined as soloist.

Announcement was made that on Friday evening Miss Schmidt, accompanied by harp and violin, would sing "The Holy City." This song itself as sung is worth coming across the state to hear," commented Dr. Tucker. It was also given out that "The Mocking Bird Song," by the quartette would be the feature of the after-study period on Friday night.

Using a cane that dangled on his arm at intervals, Dr. Tucker made use of a big canvas chart which was headed, "A divisional display of the Book of Acts," which he termed the "Second Book of Luke."

"I have a trunk full of beautiful pictures and charts," he announced. "I use them because you learn four times more with your eyes than from your ears."

"The Book of Acts," he declared, "tells of the ascended Lord and the descended Holy Spirit." His contrasts continued with the affirmations: "Christ came to earth to die. He went to heaven to live; He came here to make expiation; He went to heaven to make intercession. Here He dwelt in humiliation; there He exists in exaltation. On earth He came to make atonement; in heaven He is the advocacy. What Jesus commenced to do is told in the book; what Jesus continues to do is likewise indicated.

The song, "Marvelous Grace," it was announced, would be the campaign key song.

Afternoon services are to be held at 2:30 o'clock each day of the series which will be preceded by a prayer meeting in the reception room over which Mrs. Coons will preside.

The night service s will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

DEMILLE FILM IS SCREEN HIT

"Men and Women" Big Feature at Ceramic Theatre.

There is no hero, no heroine, no villain in this story—the characters are just men and women.

This title opens the new William de Mille-Paramount production, "Men and Women," which is the photo-play at the Ceramic theater today and Saturday.

"But they live in New York, the city which makes all incomes too small to live on," adds the next title.

"Men and Women" is a dramatic study of a group of young people who, through weakness and mistakes, and not through the inherent wickedness of one or the other, place themselves and each other in acute situations. It is the type of drama, which Mr. de Mille handles with facility and sincerity.

The story centers around a bank cashier and his young wife. His salary is not large enough to allow her all the luxuries she craves. The cashier's assistant also loves her and, in his desire to make her happy, buys her gowns and jewelry and entertains both her and her husband. The two men are friends until the husband, fearing that the gifts of jewelry will make her dissatisfied, asks the assistant not to give his wife any more presents. The assistant frankly contends that he can give her the finery she craves, that he can make her happy and that he intends to marry her.

In his desire to retain his wife's love, the cashier takes bank bonds to speculate in the stock market. The market drops, the securities are lost and the broker ends his life. The assistant cashier is suspected of having taken the bank's valuables and the husband, by remaining silent, can send his rival to prison. His confession wins him the support of the banker and the chance to begin life anew with his wife in the south.

For "Men and Women" de Mille has assembled a fine cast of players. Richard Dix, Paramount star, is featured with Neil Hamilton, Claire Adams and Robert Edeson in the principal roles.

The picture is an adaptation by Clara Beranger of the successful stage play of the same name by David Belasco and Henry C. DeMille. Henry Stephenson, Flora Finch and others play in support.

plosion came a flash of fire, and burning oil spread about the vessel. The merriment turned to horror and panic. Captain Young ordered everybody overboard, the explosion having severed the rope attached to the dory.

Afraid to jump into the water, the terrified club members remained aboard the yacht, meanwhile adjusting life preservers to themselves, until the flames had practically enveloped the craft. Then they leaped overboard.

Meanwhile the flare of the burning yacht had attracted attention on shore and thousands of residents and visitors crowded the shore and hotel windows here and watched the fire. It was, according to one of the passengers, an hour before any vessel reached the victims clinging to the dory and floating about supported by life preservers.

The first vessel to come alongside the burning yacht was a coast guard launch from Longport. While rescuing the passengers, the coast guard men found the charred body of the McKnight girl near the still burning yacht.

Statement by Member of Crew.

Harry Lehmann of Atlantic City, was at the wheel of the Crystal when the explosion occurred.

"Everything was going fine with the yacht and the young people were having a gay time, the sea was calm and dancing had just stopped," said Lehmann.

"All of a sudden the forward deck heaved and a loud explosion followed. I was blown from the wheel and everyone within sight was thrown to the deck.

"The girls began to scream and run wildly about. Flames began to flash on the forward deck. The boys were pretty cool for young fellows who were not seamen, and while I shouted to the girls to be quiet, the boys began to tear up the deck boards to see if they could put out the fire. When the fire began to get too hot we all began to rip up flooring and toss it overboard so we could have something to keep us afloat until boats reached us.

'We worked as long as we could tearing up flooring, but finally the flames drove everybody to the starboard side and that gave the boat a heavy list that carried away the lifeboats on that side.

Passengers Terrorized.

"Captain Young kept moving about, trying to keep order but when the boat listed everybody became panicky and Captain Young ordered them to the port side so he could get them into the life boats there. Thinking they were going to get off, everybody rushed to the port side. This caused a counter list that put all of the lifeboats on that side under water."

The fire on the Crystal burned so fiercely, Lehmann said, that the passengers were terrorized.

"The girls seemed to have gone crazy and some of the men too. We had a terrible time trying to tell them what to do, with the fire getting hotter and hotter every minute we were trying to tell them how to put on the life belts, but their screams and shouting almost drowned our voices."

By the time the coast guards arrived, Lehmann said, the yacht had burned to the water's edge.

"Captain Young was the last person to leave the yacht," said Lehmann.

LARGE AMOUNT FOR ROAD WORK

The state road commission will probably have $600,000 during the next two years for highway maintenance. The above amount, it is said, will find its way into the state treasury as a result of the increased tax on gasoline passed at the recent meeting of the legislature. Other state officials are inclined to the belief that the estate of the road body is conservative and express the opinion that the levy will produce close to $800,000.

SEPARATE SCHOOL DISTRICT URGED

When the legislature convenes in regular session it is probable that a bill will be introduced proposing an independent school district for Newell. Sentiment in favor of the proposal has been growing here since the defeat of the bond issue for a new school building. The proposition carried here but was snowed under in other sections of Grant district.

During the term recently closed the high school was badly overcrowded and with the beginning of the term in September 40 additional pupils will be added to the roster of the school. It is expected that there will be a corresponding increase in the grade rooms.

The contractors' position, on the matter of the carpenters' strike, is briefly this:

Costs in general—building costs among them are no longer rising; in many instances they are falling. To raise wages now would be to run counter to a well-defined nation-wide economic trend. When you do that, something happens. If you raise building costs, when everything else is dropping, people are quite liable to stop building. Movements of that sort spread. None can afford to have another "buyers' strike" start. We all remember what happened in 1920 and 1921.

If you raise the wages of one group in a community when the wages of others are standing still or decreasing, you increase the burdens of the other groups at a time when they are least able to stand it. You help the carpenters, but you hurt everyone else. Things apparently trivial have often a mighty influence on the economic structure. Towns have been made and towns have been ruined by a differential of a few cents in a railroad freight rate. Similarly, when you make it more expensive to live in a community you make it harder to live there — and easier to move away. It could very easily happen that to give the carpenters what they want might prove a very bad thing for them, as well as for the community.

When the public sees how deep this thing goes into their own lives, there will be a public demand for arbitration of the carpenters strike. The contractors feel it should be arbitrated.

FIND SHEPHERD CASE WITNESS

Robert White Returns to Chicago to Testify.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Robert White, missing witness in the trial of William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of "Billy" McClintock, walked into the state's attorney's office this morning. He was accompanied by his wife and child.

The drama in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's courtroom today featured the cross-examination of Alexander Reichmann, lawyer and co-guardian of the millionaire orphan, by Attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien counsel for Shepherd.

Shepherd's attorneys were prepared for a bitter grilling of the lawyer held to be long a foe of Shepherd and who was the principal part yesterday in State's Aattorney Robert E. Crowe's attempt to prove a motive for the "typhoid murder" he laid at Shepherd's door.

Another big crowd gathered for the second day of testimony. Bitter clashes between counsel marked yesterday's proceedings.

Shepherd came into the courtroom smiling.

$175,000, and this year threatens to spend $250,000.

That amount during the war would have been fired off on any front in wasted metal and a few destroyed lives in half a minute.

Our civilization is shown in the fact that nations united were willing to spend two hundred thousand million dollars on war and object to spending $250,000 on health.

Dr. Fosdick, a "modernist," who goes for to suggest that Jonah might have been smothered or even digested in the whale's belly, is chosen pastor of the Rockefeller church in New York.

That agitates Dr. Straton, "fundamentalist," who knows that the whale did swallow Jonah. Dr. Straton calls Dr. Fosdick the clergyman of the "Socony church," stirring up a quarrel shocking to laymen.

"Socony," you know, is made up of Standard Oil Co. of New York. How is it that a fundamentalist, angry when you deny the whale-Jonah part of the Bible, allows himself to disregard completely the part about turning the other cheek.

President Coolidge, returning from the northwest after a most enthusiastic reception, is happy, having seen in one day more American people than any President ever saw before in one day. He is convinced "that the northwest returns the compliment, and believes that "Coolidge is patriotic," so everybody is happy.

It is just as well to admit that all Americans are patriotic, making certain allowances for diferences in patriotism.

Some gentlemen believe that patriotism consists in seeing to it that big corporations are enabled to pay big dividends.

Others think patriotism consists in taring down the big corporations and reducing them to grief. Both are wrong.

The Riffians are fighting against the French and Spanish combined, with desperate courage, in a fight that originally was against the Spaniards. Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian leader, is an intelligent man, and must possess real generalship to have dealt as he did with the Spaniards, as brave fighters as any in the world.

At present, the French and Spanish air forces are uniting, and that attack even the courage of the Arabs, defending their rights in their own land, will find it hard to meet. Courage and patriotism cannot conquer science, fighting from the iar.

There were no new developments today in the strike of union carpenters, who have been idle since May 1.

The strikers met in their hall in the Fowler building last night, but no announcement was made today concerning the meeting. Arnold Bill, Cleveland, national representative of the carpenters' union, was reported to have attended the session.

Representatives of the contractors announced at noon today that no further conferences with them had been asked by the carpenters. All differences, with the exception of the wage scale, have been adjusted.

Several Missing

plosion came a flash of fire, and burning oil spread about the vessel. The merriment turned to horror and panic. Captain Young ordered everybody overboard, the explosion having severed the rope attached to the dory.

Afraid to jump into the water, the terrified club members remained aboard the yacht, meanwhile adjusting life preservers to themselves, until the flames had practically enveloped the craft. Then they leaped overboard.

Meanwhile the flare of the burning yacht had attracted attention on shore and thousands of residents and visitors crowded the shore and hotel windows here and watched the fire. It was, according to one of the passengers, an hour before any vessel reached the victims clinging to the dory and floating about supported by life preservers.

The first vessel to come alongside the burning yacht was a coast guard launch from Longport. While rescuing the passengers, the coast guard men found the charred body of the McKnight girl near the still burning yacht.

Statement by Member of Crew.

Harry Lehmann of Atlantic City, was at the wheel of the Crystal when the explosion occurred.

"Everything was going fine with the yacht and the young people were having a gay time, the sea was calm and dancing had just stopped," said Lehmann.

"All of a sudden the forward deck heaved and a loud explosion followed. I was blown from the wheel and everyone within sight was thrown to the deck.

"The girls began to scream and run wildly about. Flames began to flash on the forward deck. The boys were pretty cool for young fellows who were not seamen, and while I shouted to the girls to be quiet, the boys began to tear up the deck boards to see if they could put out the fire. When the fire began to get too hot we all began to rip up flooring and toss it overboard so we could have something to keep us afloat until boats reached us.

'We worked as long as we could tearing up flooring, but finally the flames drove everybody to the starboard side and that gave the boat a heavy list that carried away the lifeboats on that side.

Passengers Terrorized.

"Captain Young kept moving about, trying to keep order but when the boat listed everybody became panicky and Captain Young ordered them to the port side so he could get them into the life boats there. Thinking they were going to get off, everybody rushed to the port side. This caused a counter list that put all of the lifeboats on that side under water."

The fire on the Crystal burned so fiercely, Lehmann said, that the passengers were terrorized.

"The girls seemed to have gone crazy and some of the men too. We had a terrible time trying to tell them what to do, with the fire getting hotter and hotter every minute we were trying to tell them how to put on the life belts, but their screams and shouting almost drowned our voices."

By the time the coast guards arrived, Lehmann said, the yacht had burned to the water's edge.

"Captain Young was the last person to leave the yacht," said Lehmann.

LARGE AMOUNT FOR ROAD WORK

The state road commission will probably have $600,000 during the next two years for highway maintenance. The above amount, it is said, will find its way into the state treasury as a result of the increased tax on gasoline passed at the recent meeting of the legislature. Other state officials are inclined to the belief that the estate of the road body is conservative and express the opinion that the levy will produce close to $800,000.

SEPARATE SCHOOL DISTRICT URGED

When the legislature convenes in regular session it is probable that a bill will be introduced proposing an independent school district for Newell. Sentiment in favor of the proposal has been growing here since the defeat of the bond issue for a new school building. The proposition carried here but was snowed under in other sections of Grant district.

During the term recently closed the high school was badly overcrowded and with the beginning of the term in September 40 additional pupils will be added to the roster of the school. It is expected that there will be a corresponding increase in the grade rooms.

The contractors' position, on the matter of the carpenters' strike, is briefly this:

Costs in general—building costs among them are no longer rising; in many instances they are falling. To raise wages now would be to run counter to a well-defined nation-wide economic trend. When you do that, something happens. If you raise building costs, when everything else is dropping, people are quite liable to stop building. Movements of that sort spread. None can afford to have another "buyers' strike" start. We all remember what happened in 1920 and 1921.

If you raise the wages of one group in a community when the wages of others are standing still or decreasing, you increase the burdens of the other groups at a time when they are least able to stand it. You help the carpenters, but you hurt everyone else. Things apparently trivial have often a mighty influence on the economic structure. Towns have been made and towns have been ruined by a differential of a few cents in a railroad freight rate. Similarly, when you make it more expensive to live in a community you make it harder to live there — and easier to move away. It could very easily happen that to give the carpenters what they want might prove a very bad thing for them, as well as for the community.

When the public sees how deep this thing goes into their own lives, there will be a public demand for arbitration of the carpenters strike. The contractors feel it should be arbitrated.

INDUSTRIES UNITE TO SAVE FORESTS

Board Is Named to Avert Lumber Waste.

Washington—A nation-wide movement to conserve the lumber resources of the United States was started by the appointment of a conservation committee, of which Secretary Hoover has agreed to act as chairman. The committee is to make a thorough study of the wood-using industries and report at a conference to be held next fall. One of the big objects sought is to obtain closer co-operation in insuring full use of all timber cut.

The committee comprises representatives of the railways, the paper and pulp industry, purchasing agents of the country, wood-using industries, lumber manufacturers and retailers, architects and contractors, the American Engineering council and the national farmer organizations.

A preliminary conference, called by Secretary Hoover, has been in session here for some time and it was voted that definite action to bring about conservation was essential to the best interests of the nation. At the close of the conference the situation was summed up by John V. W. Reynders of New York, who represented the American Engineering council.

"The United States," he said, "has been living in a fool's paradise. Foreign governments are studying economics, and unless we take the same step economy measures will be forced upon us. Industry must look at such problems from a national standpoint.."

Voluntary Action.

Secretary Hoover explained what the Department of Commerce had been developing during the last three years with industry to eliminate waste. It has been found possible, he said, to obtain practical results by voluntary action, the function of the government being to bring together the industries that they might unite for such action as would serve the common interest.

Secretary Hoover said the fact that timber was being cut at a rate four times faster than it was being replaced, called for immediate and constructive action. The problem for the committee, he added, dealt with the problems faced in making for economy of use after the forest had become a commercial product.

Announcement was made by Mr. Hoover that an anonymous gift of $25,000 a year for two years had been received, to serve as the nucleus for financing the investigations which the committee will undertake. He recommended that the program of the committee take the form of day-to-day operations, with studies being made of specific industries to ascertain the full facts, and then to be considered from the standpoint of their relation with other industries, to the end that the by-products of one industry might be utilized wherever possible by another.

One of the faulty functions of the present-day commercial and industrial fabric, Secretary Hoover contended, was that industries had not been brought together to co-operate in the national interest. Such co-operation, he said, would not only bring economy of operation of industry, but would result in a more efficient use of raw materials.

Paper Industry.

A report on behalf of the American Paper and Pulp association was made by Norman W. Wilson, president of that organiation. He said the paper and pulp industry was tackling the problem from two ends. More and more mills were employing foresters to secure expert treatment of the timber and to reproduce their wood supplies, he said. At the finishing end of the industry increasing attention was being given to research for new uses for by-products.

Hugh P. Baker of New York, secretary of the same organization, said that while the paper and pulp industry consumed 6,000,000 cords of wood annually, this was but 4 per cent of the timber cut in the United States. The value of paper products and paper goods is about $24.000,000.000.

The industry, he said, has two problems, one technical and the other commercial. In the technical field decay of wood and utilization of decayed woods has been combated by the forest products laboratory. Hardwoods were being used with success where they were not formerly usable and where a decade ago foresters regarded the hardwood trees as a nuisance.

Howard Andrews of Nashville, representing the National Association of Railroad Tie Producers, said that through the use of wood preservative the industry already had reduced the replacement of ties from a rate of 325 per mile in 1920 to 90 per mile in 1924.

Col. W. B. Greely of the federal forest service, who will act as vice chairman of the new conservation committee, argued for the establishment of some sort of clearing house and guiding agency to aid in the conservation desired.

NEW STATE PARK LAND SURVEYED

Fifty Foot Highway to be Maintained Around Lake.

A survey of the water line of the new state park in Hanover township, just finished by Surveyor Edward Phelps of the county surveyors' office, shows there will be a 10 mile drive around the big pond when the lake is "filled."

This lake will be fed by three streams and many fresh water springs, which will insure a maximum depth throughout the year.

It has been proposed by the state highway department that a 50-foot road be maintained at all times around the 10-mile water line, and that no encroachment upon this road will be permitted at any season of the year. This plan is different from that usually found about state parks where land owners refuse to permit motorists to drive to the water line. Sufficient ground is being purchased by the state to insure a 50-foot road around the water line, so that free access to the water will be possible at all seasons of the year.

There will be two islands in the lake, the survey shows, and it is also shown by the map that at certain places around the water line, those who may go in bathing can go out for a depth of ten feet and then step into 30 feet of water.

The law passed by the last legislature authorizing the establishment of a state park in this county, and appropriating money for the purchase of land for such purposes, will become effective within the next few weeks. In order that no time shall be lost in taking title to the acreage, an abstract of the entire acreage has been ordered, and this is now being made. The record for each piece of land to be taken over by the state will go back for a period of 21 years only, as another new law decrees that where possible errors in deeds have not been corrected, the deed as filed becomes final and without recourse.

Other state departments at Columbus are working on plans for this improvement, the first being the closing of the gap in the breast of the dam of the old Sandy and Beaver Canal at the east end of the old canal. With this closed, water will then begin to gather in the big pool, and within a few months a considerable amount of water will have accumulated. Within six months, it is said, the lake will be about full, and water will then be flowing through the spill-way.

It is not likely that any work on the fish hatchery buildings will be done this year, although it is likely some preliminary labor will be performed with this end in view. The hatchery building is to be erected east of the breast.

The board of county commissioners have discussed the improved highway connections from the north, south, east and west, and several of these highways may be built next year. The first will probably extend from the west end of the paved road at the county home west to Alexander and North Georgetown.

The road from Winona south is also a short one to improve, and as this road is of importance to those driving from the north part of the county.

SEGER FUEL MINE IS OPERATING

Between eight and 10 cars of coal are being loaded daily at the mines of the Seger Fuel company at West Point, the mine working six days last week, and because of a "fall" in the mine a number of men were employed last Sunday clearing the tracks.

It is declared that between 50 and 100 men are now employed by the company, and that very soon a new vein of coal will have to be opened.

Resumption of this mine is giving employment to people residing both in Lisbon and about West Point, although a number of miners moved from the West Point field when the mine suspended April last year.

Haskin's Letter

Such a team would lose out in a tug of war with the combined generating stations of the New York Edison system, and such a team would represent all the horses in all the cities of the United States or more than a tenth of all those on the farms.

The new East River Stations will be the height of seven stories and will cover an area 207 to 1,100 feet, which equals about four average city blocks. The building itself will cost approximately $12,000,000 while the cost of the whole station, equipment and all, will run to more than four times that amount.

To Meet Future Needs.

This plant is being constructed to make it possible for the Edison company to serve the increased population which New York City will have by 1930, but it is only a step on the company's plans to equip itself to meet the electricity needs of the metropolitan area twenty-five years hence, according to the estimates of the committee on regional plan of New York and Its Environs, there will be at least 16,000,000 people there.

The station will have nine gigantic turbo-generators, each with a capacity of 60,000 kilowatts, or 80,000 horsepower, which is 10,000 kilowatts greater than the largest single unit machine now in operation. Additional equipment will bring up the total capacity of the station to 700,000 kilowatts.

Each of the giant generators will weight 1,182,500 pounds and as it is a physical impossibility to ship one of the units complete they will be assembled at the station. Even then it will be necessary to handle weights up to 185 tons, and for this purpose two traveling cranes, each with a carrying capacity of 200 tons, will be installed in the turbine room.

Operating at capacity the station will require for steam condensing purposes twice as much water as is brought down through the Catskill Aqueduct to the city. However, it will not use city water but will get its supply from East river, taking 800,000 gallons from the river each minute and returning it the next minute. Thus there will be pubped into and out of the station every 24 hours a total of 1,500,000,000 gallons of water.

The station will have ten boilers, each with a normal capacity of 1,550 horsepower, but through the use of the water cooled side walls it will be possible to operate the boilers at increases in efficiency never heretofore attained. Above the boilers will be located the economizers for cooling the escaping gases down to the lowest possible temperature before discharge into the atmosphere. Steam will be fed to the turbines from the boilers at 350 pounds pressure and 700 degrees temperture.

The Edison company, by the way, was the first central station of the kind in the world to use the steam turbines which are now universal. In its new plant it promises to introduce again improved devices and methods that will mark a decided advance in the electrical generating industry.

How Coal Will Be Handled.

Obviously the fuel requirements of the East River station will be enormous and one of the most interesting features of the plant will be the arrangement for handling coal. With all the coal that will be consumed not a ton, nor a ton of the ashes that are created, will pass over a New York City street or alley.

The fuel will be brought to the station in ocean going freighters of 5000 tons capacity, and by the use of traveling coal handling towers along the river front the coal will be unloaded directly from the vessels at the rate of 500 tons per hour. Each tower will be equipped with a two-ton bucket which will make two round trips a minute, lifting the coal from the ship and dumping it into one of the crushers to be prepared for the furnace. From that point the coal will be conveyed on belts through weigh-bins to bunkers immediately in front of each of the boilers, and it will then be fed automatically into the furnaces.

The amount of coal that will be consumed when the plant is running at maximum capacity would require at least 500 huge coal trucks to haul it and the ashes it maks. To add that amount of traffic to the already congested down town district in New York would be to complicate a traffic problem that is even now almost beyond solution.

Unloading the coal directly into the plant from the freighters and in a similar manner loading the ashes directly from the plant on river scows will, it is said, prove a most satisfactory answer to the transportation problem.

Compared with other plants in this country it is claimed that the new Edison station will ultimately have a capacity twice as great as the largest electrical generating installation now operating under one roof in the central station field. It will equal the combined capacity of the great Hell Gate Station and the famous Waterside No. 1 and Waterside No. 2 stations, which with the Sherman Creek station now serve all Manhattan, the Bronx, Westchester county, and part of Queens.

It was designed by Thomas E. Murray in consultation with the officers and engineers of the Edison company. The building itself will be one of the most impressive and most attractive structures in lower New York.

The initial installation of generating equipment will be completed next spring, it is promised.

Canadian Farmer Seeks Assistance In Securing Wife

SUTTON, England, June — Securing a wife for a Regina, Saskatchewan farmer, is too great a responsibility for Chairman W. H. Crosland, of the Sutton Town Council, so the farmer who wrote to him will probably have to use other means to find an English wife.

"I am making a request of you to aid me in getting a life partner," the farmer wrote. "I am 38 years of age, fair complexion, a farmer, single, wishing a wife of English parentage, age from 20 to 35. No objection to a widow with one child. Must be a good cook, good looking and of neat appearance."

Haskin's Letter

Such a team would lose out in a tug of war with the combined generating stations of the New York Edison system, and such a team would represent all the horses in all the cities of the United States or more than a tenth of all those on the farms.

The new East River Stations will be the height of seven stories and will cover an area 207 to 1,100 feet, which equals about four average city blocks. The building itself will cost approximately $12,000,000 while the cost of the whole station, equipment and all, will run to more than four times that amount.

To Meet Future Needs.

This plant is being constructed to make it possible for the Edison company to serve the increased population which New York City will have by 1930, but it is only a step on the company's plans to equip itself to meet the electricity needs of the metropolitan area twenty-five years hence, according to the estimates of the committee on regional plan of New York and Its Environs, there will be at least 16,000,000 people there.

The station will have nine gigantic turbo-generators, each with a capacity of 60,000 kilowatts, or 80,000 horsepower, which is 10,000 kilowatts greater than the largest single unit machine now in operation. Additional equipment will bring up the total capacity of the station to 700,000 kilowatts.

Each of the giant generators will weight 1,182,500 pounds and as it is a physical impossibility to ship one of the units complete they will be assembled at the station. Even then it will be necessary to handle weights up to 185 tons, and for this purpose two traveling cranes, each with a carrying capacity of 200 tons, will be installed in the turbine room.

Operating at capacity the station will require for steam condensing purposes twice as much water as is brought down through the Catskill Aqueduct to the city. However, it will not use city water but will get its supply from East river, taking 800,000 gallons from the river each minute and returning it the next minute. Thus there will be pubped into and out of the station every 24 hours a total of 1,500,000,000 gallons of water.

The station will have ten boilers, each with a normal capacity of 1,550 horsepower, but through the use of the water cooled side walls it will be possible to operate the boilers at increases in efficiency never heretofore attained. Above the boilers will be located the economizers for cooling the escaping gases down to the lowest possible temperature before discharge into the atmosphere. Steam will be fed to the turbines from the boilers at 350 pounds pressure and 700 degrees temperture.

The Edison company, by the way, was the first central station of the kind in the world to use the steam turbines which are now universal. In its new plant it promises to introduce again improved devices and methods that will mark a decided advance in the electrical generating industry.

How Coal Will Be Handled.

Obviously the fuel requirements of the East River station will be enormous and one of the most interesting features of the plant will be the arrangement for handling coal. With all the coal that will be consumed not a ton, nor a ton of the ashes that are created, will pass over a New York City street or alley.

The fuel will be brought to the station in ocean going freighters of 5000 tons capacity, and by the use of traveling coal handling towers along the river front the coal will be unloaded directly from the vessels at the rate of 500 tons per hour. Each tower will be equipped with a two-ton bucket which will make two round trips a minute, lifting the coal from the ship and dumping it into one of the crushers to be prepared for the furnace. From that point the coal will be conveyed on belts through weigh-bins to bunkers immediately in front of each of the boilers, and it will then be fed automatically into the furnaces.

The amount of coal that will be consumed when the plant is running at maximum capacity would require at least 500 huge coal trucks to haul it and the ashes it maks. To add that amount of traffic to the already congested down town district in New York would be to complicate a traffic problem that is even now almost beyond solution.

Unloading the coal directly into the plant from the freighters and in a similar manner loading the ashes directly from the plant on river scows will, it is said, prove a most satisfactory answer to the transportation problem.

Compared with other plants in this country it is claimed that the new Edison station will ultimately have a capacity twice as great as the largest electrical generating installation now operating under one roof in the central station field. It will equal the combined capacity of the great Hell Gate Station and the famous Waterside No. 1 and Waterside No. 2 stations, which with the Sherman Creek station now serve all Manhattan, the Bronx, Westchester county, and part of Queens.

It was designed by Thomas E. Murray in consultation with the officers and engineers of the Edison company. The building itself will be one of the most impressive and most attractive structures in lower New York.

The initial installation of generating equipment will be completed next spring, it is promised.

Canadian Farmer Seeks Assistance In Securing Wife

SUTTON, England, June — Securing a wife for a Regina, Saskatchewan farmer, is too great a responsibility for Chairman W. H. Crosland, of the Sutton Town Council, so the farmer who wrote to him will probably have to use other means to find an English wife.

"I am making a request of you to aid me in getting a life partner," the farmer wrote. "I am 38 years of age, fair complexion, a farmer, single, wishing a wife of English parentage, age from 20 to 35. No objection to a widow with one child. Must be a good cook, good looking and of neat appearance."

Anti-soviet Movement Rapidly Spreading In South Russia

WARSAW, June — An anti-Soviet movement is rapidly spreading in the Caucasus, according to reports from South Russia.

One sensational report states that the entire government of the Nakhichevan Soviet Republic has been arrested. It appeared that the local Soviet Commissars, who posed as staunch Communists, were, in fact, disgusted upholders of the old regime.

For a long time they managed to elude the vigilance of the central authorities at Moscow, and, under the cloak of Communist activities, conducted an energetic propaganda for an anti-Soviet insurrection on a large scale.

Unemployed in Austria, in January, numbered 187,000, the highest number since the war.

A nasty little moth, innocent looking though he may be, can and will destroy hundreds of dollars worth of clothes or fabric household furnishings in a very short time.

You can't arrest or punish this destructive animal, but you can end his career if you catch him. The best way, though, to protect your things against his ravages is to prevent his existence—that is, by having them thoroughly dry cleaned and using proper care before storing them for summer.

An Entirely New Kind of Motor Car Travel

Changing our Transportation Habits

We predict that within a month after we have delivered your Chrysler Six all your ideas of travel will be changed—revolutionized.

Instead of traveling by train, nine times out of ten you'll travel in your Chrysler Six.

Scores of times during the year your Chrysler Six will take the place of the railroad because you'll prefer the newer way that only the Chrysler Six offers—

Simply because the Chrysler Six is so swift, so safe, so comfortable, it becomes unnecessary to subject yourself to the older method.

With the advantages that only the Chrysler Six offers it is the most logical thing in the world to take the road in your own car, whether the jump be long or short, whether for business or pleasure.

We predict that your Chrysler Six will make these changes in your ideas and habits of travel because it has already done so with thousands of owners.

They find not only can they travel swiftly in their Chrysler Six, but in greater comfort and safety. In many instances it also enables them to cut out the Pullmans and spend the night in their own comfortable beds at home.

All this is just what might have been expected when you consider the nature of the results which only the Chrysler Six delivers.

Swiftness—Ease—Safety.

There is more speed in the Chrysler Six than you'll ever use—even when you're in a hurry to make the next town.

You have command of a high-gear speed range of from 2 to better than 70 miles an hour. Few would care to let the car out to its limit.

You don't need this highest speed to make any journey in better time than other cars. Drive at an average of 35 miles and still you'll save time over others because the Chrysler Six is so alert, because it gets away so quickly and is so easy to handle, so sure in control. It is always first out of traffic.

Turns and rough roads need not worry you. You can take a turn in safety at 50 miles an hour and drive comfortably at 60 miles over cobble stones and rutted roads.

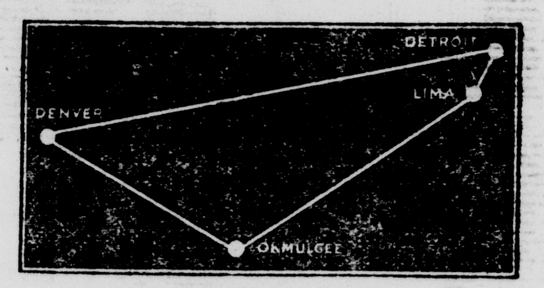
Roadability is one of the Chrysler's most remarkable features. It clings to the road as though it really weighed as much as two tons.

You'll drive in town or country all day without fatigue because of its easier riding qualities which efficient Watson stabilators have made still more remarkable by the elimination of re-bound shock on even the roughest highways.

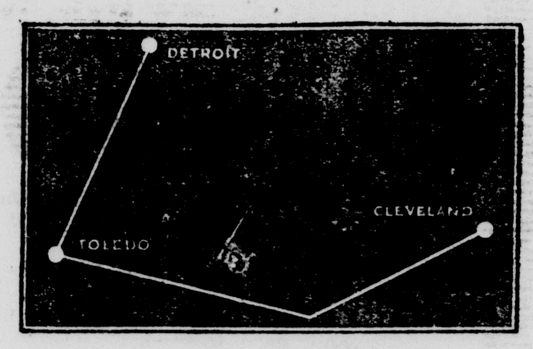
You'll drive always with the greatest possible safety because Chrysler-Lockheed self-equalizing hydraulic four-wheel brakes give you perfect control.

You'll find yourself freed of motor worries by the Purolator, which automatically and continuously filters all dirt out of the oil in your crank-case as you drive; by the efficient air-cleaner which keeps all dust and dirt out of your carburetor and engine.

We make one more prediction. After you have once had a ride in this car you'll always think of better transportation in terms of Chrysler Six. That ride is awaiting your convenience.



In Okmulgee, Oklahoma, is an oil man whose business takes him often to Denver, to Detroit, to Lima, Ohio, and back to Okmulgee. Some trip! He used to do it by train of course. Now he makes it in his Chrysler Six with ease and comfort and is an enthusiast over the newer and better way.



A Detroit man goes to Toledo frequently on business, then to Cleveland and back to Detroit. He used to do it by train, usually on the sleeper. Now he travels in his Chrysler Six, starts at his own time in the morning, makes Toledo and Cleveland the same day, transacts business in each place and is free to start back home when he chooses, regardless of train schedules.

Results that only Chrysler Six delivers, owners say, make this newer travel method the safe, sensible and comfortable way to get about.

Youthful Earl Not Easily Fooled; Wants To See English King

LONDON—The Earl of MacDuff, son of Prince Arthur of Connaught, wants to see the real king of England, and can't be fooled by "Uncle George."

The diminutive Earl has been learning the national anthem and has pondered over the words, "our noble king," and insisted to his nurse that he wanted to see "our noble king."

"Look! There is the king with walking at Bagshot with the Duke of Connaught, the nurse pointed and said to the Earl of MacDuff:

"Look! There is the king with grandfather."

"Oh, no!" said the Earl of MacDuff, not to be fooled, "That's only Uncle George."

Women of London who are trying to wear the new ten-inch-brim hats on shingled heads are seeking devices to keep the big creations from falling off.

Setting a New World Mark of 101.13 Miles per hour—500 Miles without Tire Trouble

This gruelling test proves the outstanding superiority of Firestone Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. With practically no change in cars and drivers from last year, and over the same rough, uneven brick track, laid sixteen years ago—Firestone Balloons racing under a blazing sun—beat last year's world record on thick-walled, high-pressure tires by a wide margin.

Of the 21 cars which started, only 10 finished "in the money"—every one on Firestone Balloons—Gum-Dipped by the extra Firestone process that adds extra strength and flexibility, and eliminates internal friction and heat.

Infant Chemical Industry In U. S. Has Rapid Growth

American Preparations in Increased Demand Throughout World, Bureau Says.

WASHINGTON, June — Among the industries of the United States showing the greatest development as the result of the closing of foreign sources of supply during the war, is the manufacturing of chemicals and products, according to the Department of Commerce.

"The exports of chemicals and allied products to foreign countries during the first quarter of 1925 attained an aggregate value of $36,034,000 and showed 11 per cent increase over the corresponding period of 1924," Charles C. Concannon, chief of the Chemical Division of the department, said.

Dominate Markets.

"This figure was higher than for any single quarter last year. Shipments of naval stores, paints and varnishes, explosives and perfumery and toilet preparations were all larger than during any similar period in 1924."

Throughout last year the foreign market for toilet preparations showed a steady increase, the producers of this country gradually gaining the upper hand over their competitors, chiefly in France. Toilet preparations exported during the year were valued at $7,251,000.

American tooth paste and other dental preparations particularly are in demand and actually dominate several foreign markets in competition, with home manufacturers selling for less, the department said.

Lip sticks, eyebrow pencils, hair tonics, facial creams, talcum powders and nearly all other American toilet articles are fast growing in demand in the world markets.

Of the major chemical groups naval stores represented the biggest change, having risen 43 per cent in value from the $4,251,000 export in the first three months of 1924. Naval stores include resin, turpentine and several other products.

Paints in Demand.

The export of pigments, paints and varnishes during the first quarter reached a value of $4,133,000, showing an 8 per cent increase over last year.

Sulphur, one of the commodities in which the United States is one of the leading world factors, improved 33 per cent in quantity and 50 per cent in value, from 93,400 tons, worth $1,443,000 in 1924, to 125,000 tons worth $2,165,000 in the first quarter of 1925.

The export of industrial chemicals in the first quarter totaled $2,470,000, a 1 per cent increase over 1924.

In the explosive group a 37 per cent increase in value was recorded, the total shipment having reached 6,159,000 pounds, valued at $1,315,000. Dynamite accounted for 60 per cent of the total.

Foreign sales of medicinal and pharmaceutical preparations continued on an upward movement, reaching a total of $4,826,000 for the first three months.

By the use of electric light and power on one farm well equipped with machinery, there is a saving of forty minutes working time each day by every man employed there.

DAN CUPID THEIR BEST SALESMAN, SAYS CONVENTION OF JEWELERS

BALTIMORE, Md., June — Danny Cupid makes jewelry business pay.

It's little Dan "himself" who makes a living for jewelers and their families.

Jewelers from Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania agreed on that as they assembled at the Southern hotel for their annual convention.

"Around this time of the year," one of the jewelers from Pennsylvania said, "business picks up. Proud papas and mammas come to the stores to buy graduation presents for 'Willie' or 'Susie' or whatever their pride may be."

"Later," another jeweler from Delaware said, "the embarrassed young men start coming in and shyly buying wedding rings. And a little later folks come trooping in for wedding presents. And that's what makes things lively." He said this was the busy season.

A short, bald-headed jeweler from Lancaster told of a young man who was paying installments on four engagement rings at the same time, as a result of tangled love affairs. However, the young man is safe now, as he is married to the recipient of the fourth ring.

"After Christmas," one of them said, "business slumps, but later on it gets better."

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Prague City Council Regulates Sale of Coffee in Confines

PRAGUE, June — Prices in the coffee houses of Prague have just been regulated by the city council and aldermen

Coffee houses have now been divided into three distinct classes. There are the luxurious ones, then the less showy ones, finally those used by workers, porters, chauffeurs, etc. Prices are fixed according to the degree.

These prices form a very important matter in central Europe, where people linger for hours over their coffee and read all the newspapers and journals in the place.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Prague City Council Regulates Sale of Coffee in Confines

PRAGUE, June — Prices in the coffee houses of Prague have just been regulated by the city council and aldermen.

Coffee houses have now been divided into three distinct classes. There are the luxurious ones, then the less showy ones, finally those used by workers, porters, chauffeurs, etc. Prices are fixed according to the degree.

These prices form a very important matter in central Europe, where people linger for hours over their coffee and read all the newspapers and journals in the place.

Record Crowd Watches Riley Nine Nose Out Trotters, 3-2

One Stolen Sack and Three Miscues Score Winning Run In Fifth

Marshall Reaches First on Booted Ball, Steals Second and Then Goes Home as Opposition Throw Ball Around the Playing Field.

Chester, despite its defeat earlier in the week by Laughlin, came back and trounced Trotter in a fast City Industrial league game on its own lot, Smith field, 3 to 2, on Thursday evening, thus strengthening its hold at the organization's top.

Errors, three almost in a row with a stolen base sandwiched between the first two in the fifth inning, gave the West Virginians their winning run when the score was 2 to 2 and two men out.

F. Marshall, in that fateful inning, drove to Herbert, who booted the ball. Then Marshall stole second base and reached third from Hunselman's over-throw. The ball was retrieved by E. Bayley, who relayed it wildly into the infield, it passing into the crowd between third base and the plate as the runner continued homeward.

In the previous inning two passes, two singles and a sacrifice fly had given the winners an outstanding lead, but R. Pollock made amends for his wildness on that occasion by doubling and paving the way for his and Parson's scoring.

With the score tied it was anybody's game and the pitcher's battle between Pollock and M. Cebula continued. Both had terrific speed and both used a change of place. An error by P. Cebula put Kinsey on in the sixth, but the next three men were retired in a row, two being struck out.

Then Pollock in what proved to be the final "bats" of the Riley aggregation Digman, Cochrane and C. Marshall as they appeared, fanning one.

Came then the seventh and the final chance for Trotters. R. Pollock led off, but M. Cebula, in his only walk of the game, put him on first base. As the runner eased off from the bag, the pitcher threw a bit hesitatingly to Digman, who let the ball get by him, and with no one out the elongated Trotter star seemed strategetically placed to score at least the tying run. But a great play by W. McMath, who had succeeded Potts behind the plate, when he ran back into the crowd and caught Parsons' foul made the break that perhaps saved the game. It was an outstanding catch and the big crowd went wild.

With one gone and the restive Pollock, "rearing to go," on second, the situation was still serious for Chester. A. Bayley assumed the swatting responsibility. He lined to P. Cebula, who assisted accurately this time to Digman, he having twice previously thrown wildly to the initial corner. This made the second put out and Pollock reaching third in long, sturdy strides, either elected to reach home or was "coached" to do. Anyway he gambled on a tie score and lost as Digman, throwing to W. McMath, completed the double play, and the Ohioans were licked.

Pollock, despite the loss of the game, was in there every minute giving his best, and that best was too much for Chester in all but the fourth, when the duo of passes and hits were permitted by him. But one other bingle was made off him, a single in the second by Potts. The latter made two in all, one being an infield drive which he beat out when E. Bayley, fielding it, slipped and fell. Pollock whiffed six and walked three men. His double and subsequent scoring paced the tieing of the score in the fifth.

M. Cebula was out to win and fairly "burnt them" during almost the entire contest. He fanned seven and passed but one man. He made one of the three hits which Pollock permitted and it was a healthy swipe, the drive scoring the second run made by Chester.

In fielding Chester had 39 chances and missed four, while Trotters had the same number of miscues in 28 offerings. In all the West Virginians had 14 assists, of which M. Cebula had seven.

P. Cebula had difficulty in locating first base and he put Parsons and Kinsey, the first two men in both the first and sixth on, but their successors in both instances were retired in a row.

Twice, in the fourth and fifth, M. Cebula was found for three hits, but only in the latter, when two runs were made, did scoring result. The only other safety was permitted in the second and was made by Herbert, who garnered two of the seven made by his team.

Both Pollock and Cebula did not allow hitting in four innings each.

Kinsey, all but scored in the fourth when, with the bases full and two out he raced for home, but a great throw by Cochrane in right nipped him.

Parsons, in left for Trotters and F. Marshall in the same garden for Chester, did not have a fielding chance. That a single fly was caught by Chester gardeners during the contest, Cochrane had two and P. Bennett one assist. But three flies were caught by Trotter men in the pasture, A. Bayley having two and Kinsey one.

J. Strobel made a fine catch of P. Cebula's line drive in the fifth.

Another record crowd made up of more than 1,000 spectators witnessed the contest. The spectacle of automobiles in the by-streets, the first base roadway, adjoining empty lots and the main egress at the conclusion of the contest stood out and again as on former games this year on Smith field, necessitated the utilization of Marshal Seevers as traffic officer.

F. Marshall, walking in the fourth inning, reached second as Potts beat out a bunt, Cochrane walked, filling the bases. C. Marshall flew to A. Bayley, scoring F. Marshall. M. Cebula singled to left, scoring Potts.

R. Pollock doubled to deep middle in the fifth. Parsons beat out an infield rap. A. Bayley drove to M. Cebula, who threw to the plate and R. Pollock scored as Potts dropped the ball. Heckathorne singled to middle and Parsons counted, but Heckathorne was immediately caught off first, P. Bennett to M. Cebula to Digman.

CARDINALS WIN FROM SELECTS, 8-0

The Cardinals defeated the West End Selects last evening at Sherwood by the score of 8-0.

F. Vess, the Cardinals' slabman, was in fine form, fanning 12 of the opposition. Stoffel started for the Selects, pitching good ball until the fourth, when he was nicked for five hits. He was supplanted by Dimmerling, who allowed but three hits thereafter. E. Dray made a great stop in the sixth of Stoffel's liner down the third base path, preventing the visitors from scoring.

The Cardinals will go to Kensington Saturday and will clash with the Kensington team again on the following day on the local lot.

STAGG FIELD MEET TODAY

Record-breaking Performances Expected by Critics.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Four hundred of America's greatest tracksters will run through their trials at Stagg field this afternoon at the opening day of the Stagg national intercollegiate meet.

Not only will the cream of the Western conference be seen in action, but athletes from every corner of the country will be there. Probability is that records that have stood for many years will be broken.

It is in the shot put, the high jump, the two mile, the half and the broad jump events that the highest quality of competition will be found.

Ralph Hills of Princeton and Glenn Hartranft of Stanford will stage the bitterest fight for supremacy in their final college meet.

"Gob" Russell of Chicago will lead the van of the high jumpers who will seek to set a new mark.

Charley Paddock's marks in the 100 and 220 seem fairly safe, hough many look for Dehart Hubbard, the dusky Big Ten conference flash, and Tom Locke of Nebraska to come near setting a new mark in the century.

Gershe's Hand Broken.

CLEVELAND, June 12.—Benny Gershe, Cleveland featherweight, broke his hand in the seventh round of his bout last night with Charley Goodman of New York, but despite his handicap easily outpointed his opponent in the feature match of the first open air boxing shows of the season here. About 9,000 fans turned out, despite the cool weather.

WILLS-TUNNEY BOUT SLATED FOR SEPTEMBER

Negro, However, Must Win From Weinert to Qualify.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, only surviving contenders for the world's heavyweight championship, are to meet in a 15-round bout at the Polo grounds in September, provided nothing unforseen occurs in the meantime to affect their status. Wills, however, must either knock out or decisively outpoint Charley Weinert if and when the Italian hospital fund enterprise gets around to the matter of conducting its show, in order to qualify for the Tunney meeting.

Jimmy De Forrest, Polo grounds promoter, virtually admitted today that all of his plans for the immediate future revolved around the contest in question. He, like Rickard and the rest of them, would like to feature Jack Dempsey in a title bout before the end of the outdoor season but has come to the belief that it cannot be done.

A boiled cabbage may not smell as sweet as a rose but it tastes better. Therefore, De Forrest is prepared to play along with Tunney and Wills.

He expects the gate to run well over three quarters of a million and must pay the boxers accordingly. From an inside source, it was said that the Polo grounds' management is ready to set aside $300,000 for Tunney and Wills to split as they may see fit.

SWEDISH RUNNER ON NURMI'S TRAIL

STOCKHOLM, June 12.—Athletic fans today discussed the possibility of another match race between E. Wide, of Sweden, and Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, following Wide's performance in knocking nearly a half second off Nurmi's record by running 2,000 metres in 5:29 9-10. Four days ago Wide also made a new record of 8:27 5-10 for 3000 metres.

Wide ran second to Nurmi in a match race when the Finn established his mile record of 4:10 2-5 and was beaten by Paavo several times at the last Olympic games.

SECOND PLACE SCRAP FRIDAY

Second place in the City Industrial league will be the prize at stake on Friday night when Trotters and Laughlin clash on Newell field.

Trotters, losing to Chester yesterday, will give way to the Newell club should the latter win, and not only that, but will drop to fourth place if K. T. K. defeats Babcock-Wilcox in their clash at Columbian park.

By winning, however, Trotters will entrench themselves more firmly behind the leaders. In that event Laughlin will drop to fourth place if K. T. K. wins.

But one other bingle was made off him, a single in the second by Potts. The latter made two in all, one being an infield drive which he beat out when E. Bayley, fielding it, slipped and fell. Pollock whiffed six and walked three men. His double and subsequent scoring paced the tieing of the score in the fifth.

M. Cebula was out to win and fairly "burnt them" during almost the entire contest. He fanned seven and passed but one man. He made one of the three hits which Pollock permitted and it was a healthy swipe, the drive scoring the second run made by Chester.

In fielding Chester had 39 chances and missed four, while Trotters had the same number of miscues in 28 offerings. In all the West Virginians had 14 assists, of which M. Cebula had seven.

P. Cebula had difficulty in locating first base and he put Parsons and Kinsey, the first two men in both the first and sixth on, but their successors in both instances were retired in a row.

Twice, in the fourth and fifth, M. Cebula was found for three hits, but only in the latter, when two runs were made, did scoring result. The only other safety was permitted in the second and was made by Herbert, who garnered two of the seven made by his team.

Both Pollock and Cebula did not allow hitting in four innings each.

Kinsey, all but scored in the fourth when, with the bases full and two out he raced for home, but a great throw by Cochrane in right nipped him.

Parsons, in left for Trotters and F. Marshall in the same garden for Chester, did not have a fielding chance. That a single fly was caught by Chester gardeners during the contest, Cochrane had two and P. Bennett one assist. But three flies were caught by Trotter men in the pasture, A. Bayley having two and Kinsey one.

J. Strobel made a fine catch of P. Cebula's line drive in the fifth.

Another record crowd made up of more than 1,000 spectators witnessed the contest. The spectacle of automobiles in the by-streets, the first base roadway, adjoining empty lots and the main egress at the conclusion of the contest stood out and again as on former games this year on Smith field, necessitated the utilization of Marshal Seevers as traffic officer.

F. Marshall, walking in the fourth inning, reached second as Potts beat out a bunt, Cochrane walked, filling the bases. C. Marshall flew to A. Bayley, scoring F. Marshall. M. Cebula singled to left, scoring Potts.

R. Pollock doubled to deep middle in the fifth. Parsons beat out an infield rap. A. Bayley drove to M. Cebula, who threw to the plate and R. Pollock scored as Potts dropped the ball. Heckathorne was immediately caught off first, P. Bennett to M. Cebula to Digman.

CARDINALS WIN FROM SELECTS, 8-0

The Cardinals defeated the West End Selects last evening at Sherwood by the score of 8-0.

F. Vess, the Cardinals' slabman, was in fine form, fanning 12 of the opposition. Stoffel started for the Selects, pitching good ball until the fourth, when he was nicked for five hits. He was supplanted by Dimmerling, who allowed but three hits thereafter. E. Dray made a great stop in the sixth of Stoffel's liner down the third base path, preventing the visitors from scoring.

The Cardinals will go to Kensington Saturday and will clash with the Kensington team again on the following day on the local lot.

STAGG FIELD MEET TODAY

Record-breaking Performances Expected by Critics.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Four hundred of America's greatest tracksters will run through their trials at Stagg field this afternoon at the opening day of the Stagg national intercollegiate meet.

Not only will the cream of the Western conference be seen in action, but athletes from every corner of the country will be there. Probability is that records that have stood for many years will be broken.

It is in the shot put, the high jump, the two mile, the half and the broad jump events that the highest quality of competition will be found.

Ralph Hills of Princeton and Glenn Hartranft of Stanford will stage the bitterest fight for supremacy in their final college meet.

"Gob" Russell of Chicago will lead the van of the high jumpers who will seek to set a new mark.

Charley Paddock's marks in the 100 and 220 seem fairly safe, hough many look for Dehart Hubbard, the dusky Big Ten conference flash, and Tom Locke of Nebraska to come near setting a new mark in the century.

Gershe's Hand Broken.

CLEVELAND, June 12.—Benny Gershe, Cleveland featherweight, broke his hand in the seventh round of his bout last night with Charley Goodman of New York, but despite his handicap easily outpointed his opponent in the feature match of the first open air boxing shows of the season here. About 9,000 fans turned out, despite the cool weather.

WILLS-TUNNEY BOUT SLATED FOR SEPTEMBER

Negro, However, Must Win From Weinert to Qualify.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, only surviving contenders for the world's heavyweight championship, are to meet in a 15-round bout at the Polo grounds in September, provided nothing unforseen occurs in the meantime to affect their status. Wills, however, must either knock out or decisively outpoint Charley Weinert if and when the Italian hospital fund enterprise gets around to the matter of conducting its show, in order to qualify for the Tunney meeting.

Jimmy De Forrest, Polo grounds promoter, virtually admitted today that all of his plans for the immediate future revolved around the contest in question. He, like Rickard and the rest of them, would like to feature Jack Dempsey in a title bout before the end of the outdoor season but has come to the belief that it cannot be done.

A boiled cabbage may not smell as sweet as a rose but it tastes better. Therefore, De Forrest is prepared to play along with Tunney and Wills.

He expects the gate to run well over three quarters of a million and must pay the boxers accordingly. From an inside source, it was said that the Polo grounds' management is ready to set aside $300,000 for Tunney and Wills to split as they may see fit.

SWEDISH RUNNER ON NURMI'S TRAIL

STOCKHOLM, June 12.—Athletic fans today discussed the possibility of another match race between E. Wide, of Sweden, and Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, following Wide's performance in knocking nearly a half second off Nurmi's record by running 2,000 metres in 5:29 9-10. Four days ago Wide also made a new record of 8:27 5-10 for 3000 metres.

Wide ran second to Nurmi in a match race when the Finn established his mile record of 4:10 2-5 and was beaten by Paavo several times at the last Olympic games.

WIN 11 RIBBONS AT DEVON SHOW

Six horses—Golden Crest, Lady of the Evening, Sunshine o' Mine, Babe Ruth, Louise and Darling Ray have returned to the C. G. Wilderson and Robert Harrold stables in Leetonia, taking with them eleven ribbons from the horse show in Devon, Pa.

They were in charge of C. E. Dunlap, W. S. Groner and Joseph Whittle.

There were between 1,500 and 1,600 horses and ponies exhibited at the Devon show, one of the leading affairs of its kind of the country. The Leetonia horses will probably be shown at Sewickley, Pa., in the near future.

SECOND PLACE SCRAP FRIDAY

Second place in the City Industrial league will be the prize at stake on Friday night when Trotters and Laughlin clash on Newell field.

Trotters, losing to Chester yesterday, will give way to the Newell club should the latter win, and not only that, but will drop to fourth place if K. T. K. defeats Babcock-Wilcox in their clash at Columbian park.

By winning, however, Trotters will entrench themselves more firmly behind the leaders. In that event Laughlin will drop to fourth place if K. T. K. wins.

Santa Ana Is Advertised As Pacitic's 'Gretna Green'

California City Ranks Ninth in National Census as Marriage Haven.

SANTA ANA, Cal.—This city gained national advertising as a "Gretna Green" in statistics given out by the United States census bureau, showing that this haven of hasty, or quiet, marriages has placed the Orange county marriage rate in ninth position among the counties of the United States.

No other county in California and only eight counties in America equaled the Orange county rate of 60 marraiges per 1,000 population.

Attention of the census bureau was attracted to the local rate and that of the 30 other "Gretna Greens," because the county rate so far exceeded the state rate.

Orange county's rate, for instance, was more than four times as great as the California state marriage rate, which was 14.5.

In some of the nation's "Gretna Greens," where smaller populations than Orange county's gave a larger marriage rate, even though the counties had fewer marriages, the county rates were as much as 13 times greater than the marriage race of their states.

Maryland Leads.

Cecil county, Maryland, had a rate of 210.5 per 1,000 population, while the Maryland state rate was but 17.1. Brooke county, West Virginia, recorded a rate of 144.9, compared to 12.2 for the state. Clark county, Indiana, had a rate of 112.6, compared to the state rate of 13.6.

Clark county, Washington, across the Columbia river from Portland, Ore., was fourth with 75.5, compared to 12.3 for the state. St. Bernard, Lousiana, had a rate of 75.3; Howard county, Maryland, had 66.9; Alexandria City, Virginia, had 63.1; Quitman county, Georgia, had 62, and then came Orange county with 60.

Investigating the reasons for these top-heavy marriage rates, the Census Bureau found that all the counties rating at "Gretna Greens" are on the border of states, with the exceptions of Orange county, two Colorado counties, a Maryland county, Monroe county, Michigan, and Davis county, Utah.

The coal industry of Great Britain is reported to be in worse condition than at any time before except during strike times, and coal prices in continental Europe and America are lower than in Britain.

Santa Ana Is Advertised As Pacific's 'Gretna Green'

California City Ranks Ninth in National Census as Marriage Haven.

SANTA ANA, Cal.—This city gained national advertising as a "Gretna Green" in statistics given out by the United States census bureau, showing that this haven of hasty, or quiet, marriages has placed the Orange county marriage rate in ninth position among the counties of the United States.

No other county in California and only eight counties in America equaled the Orange county rate of 60 marraiges per 1,000 population.

Attention of the census bureau was attracted to the local rate and that of the 30 other "Gretna Greens," because the county rate so far exceeded the state rate.

Orange county's rate, for instance, was more than four times as great as the California state marriage rate, which was 14.5.

In some of the nation's "Gretna Greens," where smaller populations than Orange county's gave a larger marriage rate, even though the counties had fewer marriages, the county rates were as much as 13 times greater than the marriage race of their states.

Maryland Leads.

Cecil county, Maryland, had a rate of 210.5 per 1,000 population, while the Maryland state rate was but 17.1. Brooke county, West Virginia, recorded a rate of 144.9, compared to 12.2 for the state. Clark county, Indiana, had a rate of 112.6, compared to the state rate of 13.6.

Clark county, Washington, across the Columbia river from Portland, Ore., was fourth with 75.5, compared to 12.3 for the state. St. Bernard, Lousiana, had a rate of 75.3; Howard county, Maryland, had 66.9; Alexandria City, Virginia, had 63.1; Quitman county, Georgia, had 62, and then came Orange county with 60.

Investigating the reasons for these top-heavy marriage rates, the Census Bureau found that all the counties rating at "Gretna Greens" are on the border of states, with the exceptions of Orange county, two Colorado counties, a Maryland county, Monroe county, Michigan, and Davis county, Utah.

The coal industry of Great Britain is reported to be in worse condition than at any time before except during strike times, and coal prices in continental Europe and America are lower than in Britain.

Banks Are Good.
Says G. B. S. to Bryan.
For War—For Health.
A "Socony Church".

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

A good business is banking on a stock ownership basis. It is not so good for clerks.

The First National bank of New York, with George F. Baker on his road to 90, at the head of it, pays a three months' dividend of 25 per cent —100 per cent a year. The price of the stock jumped $140 in a day.

However, if you don't happen to own bank stocks, don't be entirely discouraged. One good idea, born in your brain, independent of any board of directors, may make you more money than the value of any bank stock in the world.

Everything Henry Ford has is based on one idea. And he could buy the First National bank as easily as you buy a Ford car.

"Let us cultivate our garden," said old Voltaire. "Let us cultivate our little bank," says the modern financier. A bank pays better than a garden. The First National was established in 1863, with $200,000 of stock capital. The dividend now declared, for three months only, amounts to $2,500,000, at the rate of $10,000,000 a year. Quite a good return on $200,000.

The First National breaks all bank records up to date. But watch the National City bank and espy some of the combination banks with many branches, now run on modern "chain store" lines. They will surprise you.

George Bernard Shaw says what W. J. Bryan calls "fundamentalism" is really infantilism. That is a good word.

Shaw, in a discussion with Hillaire Belloc, another "concrete" style of mind, found an excellent comparison. Those that deny evolution, says he, think that the universe and life are like the oceans—always restless, doing nothing but drowning people, "killing, killing, killing."

"People who have no conception of evolution," says Shaw, "have no future, no hope."

That will annoy Mr. Bryan, firmly convinced that when he leaves Miami his next stop will be heaven, with a place in the front row, and a good, delightful view of Prof. Scopes, of Tennessee, George Bernard Shaw, Darwin and Voltaire, all burning up together, in a place where the "worm dieth not."

Austen Chamberlain, representing the British empire, complains of the amount of the league of nations spends on its health department. England has to pay her share.

HOOVER PLEADS FOR TEAM WORK

Urges Farmer, Labor, Railroad, Merchant to Co-operate.

OSKALOOSA, Ia., June 12.—A plea for co-operation among the fundamental economic groups—farmer, labor, railroad and merchant—was made here today by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, addressing the graduating class at Penn college.

Real progress in America, according to Hoover, is impossible until these groups are relieved of all justified feeling of injustice and oppression. He pointed out that the economic groups represent parts of a great co-operative society, which comprises the country's entire business fabric.

"Upon the basis of self-interest alone, if we are to have the maximum efficiency from labor, there must first be assurance that labor will have a fair share in the result of its effort," Hoover declared.

"If we are to have economical production, labor must give its best effort.

"It is not to the advantage of the farmer to drag down the high wage of the mechanic and thereby the consuming power for farm products.

"The railroads suffer most from depression in agriculture. The farmer loses most from crippling of the railways.

"The first need of manufacturers and merchants is increased buying power among the formers."

Tracing the development of labor unions, trade associations, commercial bodies, agricultural societies and employers organizations, Hoover asserted that these groups must learn that progress will not come from crushing the individual into a shapeless mass, but in giving him enlarged opportunity.

"They must learn to understand each other and not to fight," Hoover said.

THREE BURNED TO DEATH WHEN FLAMES SWEEP NEW YORK HOME

Mother and Her Two Sons Die Following Explosion.

FATHER INJURED

Police Investigate Report That Hops Were Cooking on Stove.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Mrs. Rose Burns, 28, and her two sons Thomas, aged three years, and James, two years old, were burned to death early today in a fire which swept their apartment here following an explosion of undetermined origin.

Father Fails in Rescue Attempt.

James Burns, 31, a trolley inspector, told police he was awakened by the explosion to find his rooms in a blaze and smashed his way through a window.

When he recovered from his shock, he returned through the fire several times in ineffectual attempts to rescue his family.

The authorities were investigating a report that hops were being cooked on the kitchen stove in the Burns home.

Burns was treated for severe burns about the hands. It became hysterical when he learned his family was dead.

Maplewood to Ask Council Tonight to Extend Water Mains

A request for an extension of the city's water mains along St. Clair avenue, through what is known as Maplewood, will be presented to council tonight.

The petition urges that the mains be extended from the entrance to Riverview cemetery along St. Clair avenue to the Park Boulevard. Practically every resident along the road is pledged to attach his property to the line if the city acts. They ask a six-inch main be constructed.

The city limits end at a point just a few hundred feet north of the cemetery entrance.

A committee of the petitioners will likely appear before the solons.

The policy of the Water Works department in the past has been to extend the water mains to nay section where the return from water rents will net six percent interest on the investment.

Lisbon Marshal Recovers Ford Car Stolen Last Night

Marshal Roy Lewton, Lisbon, today recovered a Ford roadster belonging to Merill Danley, which was stolen from in front of Danley's home, College street, this city, after midnight.

Danley parked the car at 11:30 o'clock last night and knew nothing of the theft until called by the sheriff at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Two men, who are alleged to have driven the car through the square, were halted by Marshal Lewton, but stepped "on the gas" and fled.

A taxicab driver pursued them and, the thieves, realizing they were being overtaken, abandoned the car and took to the fields. The machine was not damaged.

Two Children Are Injured When Two Automobiles Crash

Car Driven by Joseph Tock, Grocer, Collides With Parked Machine on West Eighth Street.

Two children were injured when an automobile driven by Joseph Tock, West Ninth street grocer, crashed into a parked car, owned by U. S. Cunningham, May street, Insurance company superintendent, on West Eighth street at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Charles Tock, 9, Sustained injuries to his right leg when he was hurtled from his father's machine to the street. His sister, Nora 7, was cut about the head when she was hurled through the windshield. Both were removed to their home in the Miller ambulance.

Cunningham had stopped his automobile, headed east on the right side of the street near the West End Pottery, leaving the engine running while he occupied the driver's seat. Tock, accompanied by his wife and children, were traveling east on Eighth street. He lost control of the machine, and crashed into the rear end of the Cunningham car.

Mr. and Mrs. Tock were badly shaken up. Three other children in the car escaped unhurt. Both machines were badly damaged. Captain Conley made an investigation of the crash, but there were no arrests.

Cars driven by John Taylor, of the Park boulevard and Lester Rider crashed head-on on the Park Way road just above the Park Way filling station late last night. Taylor's car went over on its side, throwing the driver from his seat. Rider was coming down the hill and Taylor going up the grade when the cars met at a sharp bend in the road. Neither of the two drivers was hurt. The Taylor machine which lost a wheel and was damaged in other ways was taken to a garage by McElravy Brothers wrecking car.

MRS. GLADYS BONEY, FORMER LOCAL GIRL, SHOT; HUSBAND IS MISSING

Daughter of Mrs. Anna Freeland in Canton Hospital, Suffering From Wounds in Abdomen.

Mrs. Gladys Boney, 24, daughter of Mrs. Anna Freeland, Woodlawn avenue, is in the Mercy hospital, Canton, today suffering from two bullet wounds in the abdomen, alleged by the police to have been fired by her husband, Charles Boney, who is now a fugitive from justice.

Mrs. Boney and her husband conducted a cafe there at 1911 Tenth street, Canton. The shooting took place on the night of Sunday, May 24, in the family apartments which adjoins the store.

Boney took his wife to the hospital, stating that she had been shot by two strangers, who entered the store and demanded liquor. He declared that the men opened fire when Mrs. Boney refused their request.

When police arrived at the hospital a few minutes afterwards to question Boney he had disappeared. The authorities claim that Boney shot his wife during a quarrel. Bullets, which missed their mark, were found in the door and the walls of the room where the quarrel occurred.

Surgeons have removed one of the bullets which struck the woman, but the other has not been located. Although her condition is still regarded as serious, it is believed that she will recover. A charge of shooting with intent to kill has been filed against Boney.

Mrs. Freeland was called to Canton by the shooting.

Mrs. Boney resided in East Liverpool until her marriage about four years ago. She and her husband went to housekeeping in Canton, but later moved to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. They returned to Canton a few months ago. They have no children.

DR. LEON TUCKER EXPOUNDS TRUTHS OF BOOK OF ACTS IN UNIQUE WAY

Two Sermons Here On What Pastors Ask School Board

Two pastors will discuss from their pulpits Sunday evening the subject: "What the Ministerial Association Has Requested of the School Board in the Matter of Religious Instruction in the Public Schools."

They are Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and Rev. B. R. Johnson, of the Church of Christ.

They made this announcement today.

Evangelist and Co-workers Open Week's Services in First Baptist Church — Splendid Musical Features.

Transforming the almost capacity audience that filled the auditorium and a large section of the Sunday school room into a huge class of men, women and children, Dr. Leon Tucker of New York city, author, editor, preacher and expositor, riveted the attention of his hearers as, in his initial appearance of a week's service at the First Baptist church on Fifth street on Thursday night, he expounded the truths of the book of Acts in a unique and apparently inimitable way.

Equally appealing and forming the second line in the brief pre-summer campaign for accentuated community righteousness by means of a first hand knowledge with the contents of the Bible the trio of young women ac

CLEVELAND, June 12.—"Josiah Kirby is a thief and an embezzler", shouted special Prosecutor Joseph I. Eagelson today in his opening statement to the jury that will decide the fate of the former president of the defunct $30,000,000 Cleveland Discount company.

Prosecutor Eagelson declared the state would prove that Kirby transferred more than $1,000,000 worth of common stock to preferred shares in order to meet his personal obligations to the company

WOLLAM SEEKS PLACE IN RACE

Goodyear Balloon Aide and Pilot Landed on Ship.

BRUSSELS, June 12.— The possibility that W. T. Van Orman, of Akron, Ohio, pilot of the Goodyear III may be given second place in the Gordon Bennett cup race appeared heightened today with the assurance of the Belgian Areo club that his protest of disqualification would be studied under article 128 of the Gordon Bennett race rules.

That article disqualifies all contestants who came down on the water, receiving aid from a boat. Van Orman and his aide, C. K. Wollam, former East Liverpool, Ohio youth, landed on the deck of the steamer Vaterland.

"I caught my guide rope in the steamer's shrouns and Woolam and I pulled the Balloon down to the deck unaided", Van Orman said.

"My feet were not even wet. I have turned in to the aero club affidavits from the captain of the steamer proving my landing was regular, for which I claim I should be classed as second, with the Belgian balloon piloted by Veenstra first."

One hundred and ten members of the East Liverpool and Wellsville Kiwanis clubs and their guests attended an inter-city meeting in the Larkins annex, Market street, last night when the program was given by the visitors.

In the absence of Dr. G. E. Lewis, president of the local club, first vice president C. C. Cline presided. Music during the dinner was furnished by the Harmony Kings, a Wellsville orchestra of boys and girls. The Wellsville delegation, who made the trip in automobiles, numbered 54.

Attendance prizes were awarded Frank G. Jones, of the local club, and Leonard Aughinbaugh, of Wellsville.

After welcoming the visitors, Mr. Cline introduced Clearance Vogel, president of the Wellsville club, who, in turn, presented Dr. J. M. King, immediate past president of the club and chairman of the inter-city relations committee.

Thomas McClelland, song leader for the visitors, led the club singing and included a number of parodies on members of the local club, including Dr. Clyde Larkins, Walter B. Hill Fred George, Mayor Charles Brown, Harry Fleming and Charles C. Ashbaugh. Applause and laughter greeted each stanza of the song.

John Diemer, Wellsville insurance agent and comedian, gave a ten-minute talk in which he told short stories. The Kiwanis Glee club, composed of about a dozen vocalists, pre-

The race for the Republican nomination for mayor of East Liverpool became four-cornered today with the entry of Lewis T. Capeheart, president of council, and ex-Mayor Joseph S. Wilson.

Capeheart, who is now serving his first term as president of council, was councilman-at-large for two terms. He is engaged in the tinning and roofing business at the foot of Market street.

Wilson served three terms as chief executive of the city. He was not a candidate for re-election two years ago when Charles Brown was renominated.

Mayor Brown and John T. Leighue filed their declarations of candidacy for the G. O. P. mayoralty nomination with the election board about a week ago.

Councilmanic Candidates.

N. P. Kerr, now serving as a councilman-at-large, has tossed his hat in the ring for the council presidency. It is understood J. R. Chambers, first ward councilman, and James Larcombe, second ward councilman, will file for the same office before midnight.

Three more candidates—two Republicans and one Democrat—have qualified for the nomination for fourth ward council. They are Charles Risinger, Chestnut street, store manager, and D. Hughes, who was defeated for the nomination two years ago, has also qualified for the nomination on the Republican ticket.

Edgar H. Heddleston, Ravine street potter, is the first to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for second ward councilman. There were no candidates at noon for councilman from the first ward, either on the Republican or Democratic tickets.

400 TROOPS CALLED AS STRIKING MINERS SEIZE NOVA SCOTIA PLANT

One Killed and 40 Injured in Rioting as Mob Sweeps Down Upon Guards at British Steel Works.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 12. — Four hundred government troops were due to arrive today in New Waterford, N. S., where 2,000 striking miners were in possession of the power plant of the British Empire Steel Corporation, following bloodshed and rioting in which one miner was killed and 40 miners and company police were injured, ten of them seriously.

Chief of Police Noble of New Waterford had both legs broken and his head battered, but is expected to live.

The mob swept down on the power plant when the police who were guarding it had exhausted their ammunition. A score of police were captured and were dragged through the streets, kicked and clubbed. But for the intervention of two Catholic priests it was believed some of the men would have been killed.

After seizing the power plant, strikers raided the company's store, carried off all provisions and clothing and set fire to the building.

SEVERAL MISSING AS BLAST WRECKS YACHT IN WATERS OF ATLANTIC

Thirty Government Vessels Search Sea Off New Jersey Resort for Youthful Victims as Merry Excursion of Social Club is Turned Into Voyage of Horror.

CAPTAIN OF VESSEL IS ARRESTED PENDING INQUIRY INTO TRAGEDY

Burning Cigarette Carelessly Tossed on Top of Gasoline Supply Tank is Believed to Have Caused Explosion as Young People Dance and Laugh on Way to Shore.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—Thirty government vessels were searching the waters off Atlantic City today for several young men and women believed missing following a mysterious explosion and fire which destroyed the pleasure yacht Crystal shortly before midnight last night, burned one girl to death, seriously burned thirteen young men and women and turned a merry excursion into a voyage of horror.

The dead:

LILLIAN McKNIGHT, Pleasantville, N. J.

The injured:

Mildred Mack, Jack Linder, John Hanun, Ralph English, Estelle Banning, Warren Dilks, Dick McGlynn, Curtis Lyle, Dick Myers, Lawrence Price, Mary Toner, Katherine Arnold and Martha Weiss.

Captain William Young, who commanded the yacht, was formally arrested and released under $2,000 bond pending a government inquiry to determine the cause of the tragedy.

Anniversary Celebration

All of those aboard the Crystal were members of the social independent club and lived at Pleasantville and Northfield, N. J., towns adjoining Atlantic City. All were young, their ages ranging from 15 to 21 years.

The cldb hired the Crystal, a cabin gasoline yacht, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Edward Connors, its owner here, for a sail to commemorate the anniversary of the organization.

It was planned to go out about five miles and to remain there while the young people danced. Later it was decided to see whether any vessels were anchored in "Rum Row".

The return voyage from "Rum Row" began about 9 o'clock. When the Crystal was about six miles off Atlantic City, and ukleles were strumming and merriment was at its height a terrific explosion shook the craft. What caused it no member of the outing could definitely say. It was a theory among some of the members that a burning cigarette was carelessly tossed on top of the yacht's gasoline supply tank.

With the reverberation of the ex-

PLAN VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Four Churches Will Co-operate in Sessions Starting June 22.

Probably four of the down town churches will co-operate in the Daily Vacation Bible school, which will be conducted here during the four weeks starting June 22.

The First United Presbyterian and First Methodist Episcopal churches have pledged to take part in the proposed school while the First Baptist and First Methodist Protestant churches will act upon the suggestion next Sunday. There is a strong probability that other churches will also support the movement.

Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, has been elected chairman of the summer school organization, with James Anderson, treasurer, and Miss Ogalala Boden, superintendent. D. M. Ogilvie and Charles Boyce are members of the finance committee.

The school will meet five days a wek. A faculty of young people who have had experience in Daily Vacation Bible school work and also college training will be chosen. Several of the down town churches conducted a union Vacation Bible school last summer.

PROF. R. H. THOMPSON, MEMORY EXPERT, TELLS HOW HE DOES IT

When Man's Name is Spoken, he Tries to Associate it With His Face, Figure or Something About Him.

"When a man's name is spoken to me I try to associate it with his face, his figure or something about him. When I get that picture, firmly fixed in my mind, I can easily remember him."

This is the whole secret of the "remarkable memory" of Prof. Robert H. Thompson, founder of the National Educational Institute of New York City, who appeared before members of the Rotary club at their meeting this week, and who is now spending a few days in East Liverpool.

This was his answer to a Review-Tribune reporter's question: "How do you do it?" Rotarians marveled at his mental ability, many believing that he worked some sort of a trick. Proof of his memory, however, was established when, after each member had pronounced his name, Prof. Thompson, then starting at one end of the table repeated each person's name, making only one or two errors and in this case where he had failed to hear the name distinctly pronounced.

"Eighty-five percent of the things we learn come through our eyes," he said. "I have built my ability to retain mental pictures on this fact. I make no effort to memorize a man's name. When a man's name is given me my ear just passes it to my brain and it goes to my eye and my eye is what I use.

Thompson has a nation-wide reputation as a memory expert. Henry Ford has called him "the man with a million dollar memory." President Wilson once told him that if he could remember names as well as Mr. Thompson he would be a great politician.

On another occasion Thompson and Billy Sunday were introduced to 20 people. Sunday attempted to repeat their names and got every one wrong. Thompson named them correctly and won the admiration of the evangelist.

"Character reading is an exact science," Thompson says. "A man's life is an open book before him. He has lectured in all parts of the country on memory training and has made analyses of character and tendency of individuals toward different activities.

During his appearance before the Rotary club, Thompson selected four men, whom he declared to represent different types, making a separate analysis of each.

His first subject, having what he termed a pear-shaped face and head, was the mental type. This type of man, Mr. Thompson said, thinks quickly, reasons logically and loves ideals; he is inclined to literary and detail work, is interested in art, music, science and philosophy.

The next man was the motive type, he said, a man of muscle and bone. He possesses a square head, face and body, which denotes practicability. This type craves activity and motion; the greatest speakers, orators and reformers are this kind of men.

The third class are those with a round face, head and body. They are bankers and of the executive type. They are jolly, good natured men who have well balanced judgment. Some of the greatest financiers of the country show fleshy and vital development, including Morgan, Stilman, Ryan, Hill, Belmont and others.

The fourth type, analyzed by Prof. Thompson, was the brunette type. This kind of a man is quiet, conservative and fine in detail work. He is usually inclined to concentrate, to specialize and persevere and to attend to details with painstaking care. The greatest organization, Prof. Thompson has ever met, he says, was that of brunettes for details and administration and blondes for executive and organization work, making an ideal combination.

BRITISH LAY CRIME INCREASE TO ADOPTION OF AMERICAN METHODS

Motor Bandits are Operating, and Causing as Much Excitement as Did Dick Turpin.

LONDON, June — Little by little England is being Americanized.

Even English criminals are adopting American methods. Motor bandits are operating in England, and causing as much excitement as did Dick Turpin in the days gone by.

An official statement on crimes recently noted thtat armed robberies, heretofore but rarely known in England, were on the increase and that the use of motor cars for crime had also been adopted. The official statement described this increase in this sort of crime as "an adoption of American methods."

There is no doubt but what the statistics were quite accurate, for since their publication there have been several exciting ventures by motor car bandits, the latest one being the removal of a safe by automobile from a postoffice, with about $6,000 worth of stamps and cash.

Until the past few months Englishmen have never dreamed of motorized bandits, except insofar as they have heard of their depredations in the United States. The bandit was only a moving picture character to the Englishman until a few months ago. Now the lads with guns and automobiles are active. A recent capture showed that nearly all of those captured, who had been operating as bandits, were unemployed men.

Vigorous steps are being taken by the police to cope with the new form of crime.

Roots and Herbs Used in Medicine

The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., is recognized as the greatest user of roots and herbs in the world. Over half a million pounds are used annually in manufacturing Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These herbs are gathered with the greatest care at the season of the year when the medicinal elements which they contain are at their best. This, in part, accounts for the wonderful efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring ailing women to health and strength.

The Resas Tone-A-Dyne
The Set With the Tone Modulator.

List Price $78.00 Sale Price $35.00

THE perfected RESAS TONE-A-DYNE embodies every advantageous feature claimed for any 5 tube set, plus the Tone Modulator, a feature that is to be had only with the TONE-A-DYNE.

As its name implies, the Tone Modulator controls the tone and volume at all times and under all operating conditions. Nothing complicated or difficult about it. Simply a turn of the knob and the musical or vocal selection assumes its most pleasant volume.

The Tone-A-Dyne is non-radiating. Annoyance from squeals and howls is eliminated.

The selectivity of the Tone-A-Dyne is almost uncanny. With local stations broadcasting on a wave length only 5 meters away, station WHAS (Louisville) has been readily tuned in without interference on a short indoor aerial.

The Tone-A-Dyne is so designed that it can be operated by anyone without previous experience. The three tuning dials are acurately calibrated and matched so that their settings practically correspond. There is only one filament control, and this can be set at the best operating point on reception of the first station. A snap switch controls all tubes. Clearly marked binding posts are provided in the rear for all connections.

The perfected TONE-A-DYNE is the ideal receiver. West Coast broadcasting stations are heard regularly in the East (n this instrumet. It can be used on even a small indoor antenna, and on local receiving, it functions with a ground only.

The New Entente

England and France at last have arrived at what Aristide Briand calls a "perfect entente" regarding their German policy. The outstanding fact is their agreement upon a security pact which Germany is expected to sign.

Britain agrees to come to France's aid with all her military power, by land, water and air, in case of German aggression against France or German violation of the neutral zone established in the Rhine district. This is a revival of the three-power security pact arranged at Versailles by President Wilson, except that it leaves America out now and takes in Belgium.

This pact is linked with the league of nations covenant. Germany is to be admitted to the league, as originally contemplated, and to be bound both by the league covenant and by the guarantees of this new treaty.

The allies evidently figure that it is better to admit Germany to association with the other powers, so they will be better able to keep an eye on her. Germany will probably accept for the sake of escaping from her ostracism and getting back into international councils as an equal.

This may not insure European peace; but if it does not, it is doubtful whether anything else could. The best prospect lies in conciliation and co-operation.

Two Governors

"What New York needs," says Governor Smith, "is two governors. One would stay at the capital in Albany. The other, supplied with half a dozen dinner coats, would do the hand-shaking and speech-making. Then we could say, 'Let there be no sizable gathering in the state without the presence of the governor.' If you ask me which governor I would be, I should say the one at Albany, because I would live longer."

It was meant humorously, yet there is an undercurrent of seriousness in the proposal that any holder of an important public office will appreciate. As Governor Smith implies, the social functions that an executive in his position is expected to assume are likely to be more crushing than the business functions. No man can attend adequately to both. This is true of all governorships. It is still more tragically true of the presidency.

What Governor Smith suggests for governors is really coming about with regard to the chief executive job of many cities. Often the business duties are given to a city manager and the formal, social duties to a mayor, who has little else to do than represent the city in an ornamental way. That works pretty well, when the duties are so clearly divided that there is no clash, and the right type of man is chosen for each.

An Old-World Miracle

Thus briefly is a miracle related. Who, under any previous Italian government, ever heard of Italian trains being habitually on time?

The tourist in the old days found Italian leisure all the more notable by contrast with German efficiency. German trains, whatever they may be now, were always on time in the pre-war days. Such was the promptness, order and system of that country that at crossings the gate-keepers lowered and raised their gates by schedule, without looking to see whether the trains were coming or not, and nearly always they hit it on the dot.

In France, trains might or might not be on time. In Italy, it was something to wonder at when the arrived or departed on time. There was one country, however, surpassing Italy in that respect. Tourists averred that no Spanish train was ever known to be on time. Also that there was an authentic case of a passenger train that had got lost and no trace of it was ever discovered.

Caesarism or no Caesarism, it is a great achievement to make Italian trains run on time. And what matter if it be Mussolini time? Mussolini will soon square that by running the sun, moon and stars.

A Brighter Funeral

To those who take the sting from death, add gratefully the name of Mrs. Margaret T. Rose, of Little Rock, Ark.

Dying, Mrs. Rose left these notable instructions:

That her funeral should be gloomy.

That half the pews at the funeral services should be reserved for Negroes, because "they have done much for me, and kept me from drudgery all my life, and I have never received an act of unkindness from one of them."

That her children should not "mope and stay at home" after she was gone, but should "go out and brighten the world."

Of all these excellent things, perhaps the one that will stick longest in the mind is the injunction that those singers should "sing in their natural voices."

Chicago barbers have started calling themselves "chirotonsors," which seems to be a mongrel, highbrow word meaning "hand-barber." Glad to know, anyway, that Chicago barbers cut hair with their hands instead of their feet.

Congressmen are beginning to get just a little bit sensitive about all the talk that, with congress adjourned and no special session, there isn't any business trouble in sight for six months.

The Terrible Tempered Bang — By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 12. — Thoughts while strolling around New York: Inspiration Point on the Drive. Parked cars with dreamy couples holding hands. Tattered rags of clouds float by. A purple haze over the Palisades. Dancing sun rays on the Hudson's ripple.

And down in Wall street harried men are grubbing for dollars. Roadside photographers. Bronzed ladies on galloping mounts. Frank Vanderlip, the banker, in his limousine. And the hedged gulley where motorcycle cops pop out to tell you to draw up to the curb.

Grant's tomb and the itinerant postcard hawkers. W. H. Hearst's apartment house home. The statues are still out in front of Amelia Bingham's. Wonder who scrubs them. Whatever became of Mike Donlin? Children playing where war-bonneted Indians used to lurk.

A grim stone house hidden by flaming ivy. The home of a writer of mystery tales. The west 72nd street drive to Central Park. Jovial Big John, the traffic cop. Children feeding timid squirrels and old men feeding pigeons.

Ethical schools. The Maine monument. The fringe of mid-town architecture. Noble spires, gilded towers and clear white marble facades, flung like a dancer's shawl. Cultural ferment stirring under militant mediocrity and comic ideals.

Aristocratic loungers in the Lotus Club. A group of health farm neurotics seeing the town in a private bus. The boys used to see it only at night. The row of fortune tellers, crystal gazers and voodoo doctors near Columbus Circle.

The white frizzed darkey who plays "blues" on a mouth organ. Wish I could play an accordion. Young Griff, the pugilist, asleep in a hallway. A silent group in front of a funeral parlor. Cellar ice shops and fire escapes flapping with wet wash. The stroll is over.

This may be a milk-sop age with young men wearing 'kerchiefs in their cuffs and all that, but there is a throw back to the red corpuscled days of yore in a fly speckled drug store window sign on Broome street. It reads: "Black eye specialist on duty after midnight." There used to be a barber shop in the Furious Forties that specialized in moused optics. There was a touch of humor in a sign it displayed reading: "Black eyes treated on Saturday night by appointment only." That was gala night.

One of the old Broadway rounders declares he has not seen a fist fight in five years. "Just when you think they are going to swing from the ankle," he says, "they embrace and snap in to a waltz."

A society man disposed of the contents of his carriage house recently at private auction. There were high seated traps, Victorias, breaks, Whitechapel carts, cane phaetons and the line. It was estimated the original collection cost something like $10,000 and it sold for less than $300. Most of them were bought for Bermuda, where automobiles are not permitted.

Those hardy iron-hands who make up the noisy claque at opera are frequenters of a cafe in West 39th street. Summer is the off season for their unusual talents, but they must live or think they must. So they act as barkers and spielers for Coney Island attractions.

And, by the way, here is the ad of a spieler, who seeks an engagement, in a theatrical week: "Never hoarse in 20 years. Can bell-wether Rubes and hold the slickers. Kept two ticket sellers busy on last engagement. Have Tuxedo."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Great Electric Plant.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—When the new plant of the New York Edison company, now under construction at Fourteenth street and East river, is completed the metropolis will have not only the largest electric service company in the world but the world's largest electric generating station.

With this addition the central stations of New York City will be capable of generating as much current as was produced in all France last year, and France is said to be the best lighted country in Europe. The new plant will have twice the capacity of the one at Gennevilliers, just outside Paris, which is the largest in Europe, and it will be able to produce more electricity than the projected power development at Muscle Shoals.

At its maximum it can generate 700,000 kilowatts, or approximately 1,000,000 horsepower, which would be sufficient to light at least 3,000,000 six-room houses, and it would be capable of meeting the electricity requirements of any state in the United States except New York. It will bring the electrical generating equipment on Manhattan alone up to an aggregate such that it could light the homes, factories, public buildings and streets of all New York state outside New York City.

The magnitude of this great aggregation of power is graphically illustrated by linking it to a team of 2,000,000 horses all harnessed to one load.

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1. All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.
   If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.
2. All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.
   This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in three years.
3. Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.
   The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.
4. Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.
   It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of America, whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

UNION LEADER IS CONVICTED

Van Bittner Adjudged Guilty of Contempt by Judge.

Van A. Bittner, chief international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, in Northern West Virginia, was adjudged guilty of contempt of court by Judge I. G. Lazzelle in Monongahela county circuit court yesterday and was sentenced to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of $500. His counsel, T. C. Townsend, of Charleston, immediately served notice of an appeal, and Bittner was released on bond of $2,000.

Bittner was charged with violating an injunction issued by Judge Lazzelle on April 27, last, on petition of the Continental Coal company restraining him, other officers and members of the United Mine Workers and other defendants from unlawful interference with the open shop operation of the Continental mine. The specific charge against him was that a mass meeting in Fairmont on May 3, he had made a speech in which he spoke disrespectively of Judge Lazzelle and counselled his hearers to violate the injunction order.

Bittner, in testifying in his own behalf, declared that he had not been served with a notice of a restraining order until May 4; that he had no knowledge of the injunction when he spoke at Fairmont and that he has not spoken disrespectfully of Judge Lazzelle or counselled anybody to disregard any injunction order.

In his decision, Judge Lazzelle declared that he could not accept as credible the testimony of Bittner that he was ignorant of the Continental injunction when he made his speech in Fairmont on May 3. It might have been possible for him not to have heard about it, the court said, but it was "decidedly improbable."

"If I believe that Van Bittner was ignorant of the injunction," Judge Lazzelle said, "I must also believe that his chief lieutenants were disloyal, and I cannot believe that."

Testimony in the case had shown that notices of the injunction had been served on several of the international representatives in this field on April 30, and that some of them were on the stage in the Fairmont theater when Bittner delivered his address.

Good Fellows!

Competition is the life of business—when it is clean. Unfair competition is the destroyer of public confidence. We simply point out this basic truth for the benefit of those who are endeavoring to cash in on the other fellow's reputation.

Cut throat price wars never paid anybody, brothers, and hurt many.

The moral is do not imitate; walk on your own feet.

The American public soon learns to know the four-flusher and generally stays away from him for obvious reasons.

FIND SHEPHERD CASE WITNESS

Robert White Returns to Chicago to Testify.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Robert White, missing witness in the trial of William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of "Billy" McClintock, walked into the state's attorney's office this morning. He was accompanied by his wife and child.

The drama in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's courtroom today featured the cross-examination of Alexander Reichmann, lawyer and co-guardian of the millionaire orphan, by Attorneys William Scott Stewart and W. W. O'Brien counsel for Shepherd.

Shepherd's attorneys were prepared for a bitter grilling of the lawyer held to be long a foe of Shepherd and who was the principal part yesterday in State's Aattorney Robert E. Crowe's attempt to prove a motive for the "typhoid murder" he laid at Shepherd's door.

Shepherd came into the courtroom smiling.

$175,000, and this year threatens to spend $250,000.

That amount during the war would have been fired off on any front in wasted metal and a few destroyed lives in half a minute.

Our civilization is shown in the fact that nations united were willing to spend two hundred thousand million dollars on war and object to spending $250,000 on health.

Dr. Fosdick, a "modernist," who goes for to suggest that Jonah might have been smothered or even digested in the whale's belly, is chosen pastor of the Rockefeller church in New York.

That agitates Dr. Straton, "fundamentalist," who knows that the whale did swallow Jonah. Dr. Straton calls Dr. Fosdick the clergyman of the "Socony church," stirring up a quarrel shocking to laymen.

"Socony," you know, is made up of Standard Oil Co. of New York. How is it that a fundamentalist, angry when you deny the whale-Jonah part of the Bible, allows himself to disregard completely the part about turning the other cheek.

President Coolidge, returning from the northwest after a most enthusiastic reception, is happy, having seen in one day more American people than any President ever saw before in one day. He is convinced "that the northwest returns the compliment, and believes that "Coolidge is patriotic," so everybody is happy.

It is just as well to admit that all Americans are patriotic, making certain allowances for diferences in patriotism.

Some gentlemen believe that patriotism consists in seeing to it that big corporations are enabled to pay big dividends.

Others think patriotism consists in taring down the big corporations and reducing them to grief. Both are wrong.

The Riffians are fighting against the French and Spanish combined, with desperate courage, in a fight that originally was against the Spaniards. Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian leader, is an intelligent man, and must possess real generalship to have dealt as he did with the Spaniards, as brave fighters as any in the world.

At present, the French and Spanish air forces are uniting, and that attack even the courage of the Arabs, defending their rights in their own land, will find it hard to meet. Courage and patriotism cannot conquer science, fighting from the iar.

Kiwanians Attend

Thomas Turner, a monologist, was one of the big hits of the program, with his jokes and stories. He was followed by S. E. Daw, superintendent of the Wellsville schools and secretary of the Wellsville club, who gave a short address on "The Marks of Kiwanis."

Plea for High School Grid Game.

"Kiwanis has great spiritual and social values," Mr. Daw said. "Kiwanis will leave its mark on the business man who accepts and practices its principles.

"The first mark of a Kiwanian is that he be educated in the organization's ideals. The most common failure is the failure of a member to grow. We have too many in the organization who are content to have their names on the membership roll and nothing else.

"The second mark of Kiwanian is that he must be a gentelman. A Kiwanian does not boast; he is content to do his best and let the world be the judge. A true Kiwanian is a man of his word.

"The third and final mark of a Kiwanian is that he must be a good citizen. He must be tolerant, he must be an enemy to sensationalism that seeks to cause trouble and be conservative at all times. Kiwanis is making history and it is up to each and every member of every club to determine what that history is to be."

Dr. King extended members of the local club an invitation to come to Wellsville for a return party sometime during the month of July.

In closing the meeting, Mr. Cline urged that the two clubs get behind a movement to restore friendly athletic relations between the high schools in order to book the Thanksgiving Day football game this year. His suggestion met with hearty applause from members of both clubs.

Dr. Leon Tucker

companying him, Misses Evelyn McGee Coons, Long Beach, Cal., harpist; Cora Belle Young, of Danville, Ill., violinist and a relative of Ex-Speaker Joseph Cannon and Allie May Schmidt of St. Louis, Mo., former pupil of Felix Heink, brother-in-law of Madame Schuman-Heink, stood out in the fervor indicated, artistic qualities shown and meritorious capacities exhibited.

En Route To Arkansas

Having just completed a lengthy series of meetings in the First Presbyterian church in New Castle, Pa., and facing a long jump from here to Harding, Ark., following constant services all winter and spring since starting out in Buffalo, N. Y., last fall the entire party admitted fatigue but lessend in no wise, despite this handicap, the enthusiasm of the start of their work in East Liverpool.

"I did not come to your city to complain," asserted Dr. Tucker in explaining the situation and details of his plans while here, but to explain. My business is evangelization. So I come to talk to you of Biblical evangelists, not of sanitation or higher education but that which makes for salvation."

Introduced by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of hte church, with whom he had held meetings while the former was located in Sandusky, Dr. Tucker in turn presented the various aides, including Mrs. Jessie McKee Coons, of Long Beach, Cal., who will promote prayer while here and the mother of the Miss Coons the young harpist, who it was said, qualifies as the "baby of the party" notwithstanding her skill with the delicate instrument she has elected to play.

Preceding Dr. Tucker's exposition "Nearer My God to Thee" and variations were given on the harp by Miss Coons. Miss Young, viloinist, responded with "I Need Thee Every Hour" and Miss Schmidt sang in her lyric soprano, accompanied by harp and violin, "O, My Lord, Bless Thee Jehovah," from the sextette of Lucia.

Special Musical Program

At the conclusion of Dr. Tucker's discourse he, utilizing a guitar, Miss Coons a banjo and Miss Young her violin contributed with them the song, "Marvelous Grace." As an encore they responded with a southern spiritual, "My Precious Lord" in which Miss Schmidt joined as soloist.

Announcement was made that on Friday evening Miss Schmidt, accompanied by harp and violin, would sing "The Holy City." This song itself as sung is worth coming across the state to hear," commented Dr. Tucker. It was also given out that "The Mocking Bird Song," by the quartette would be the feature of the after-study period on Friday night.

Using a cane that dangled on his arm at intervals, Dr. Tucker made use of a big canvas chart which was headed, "A divisional display of the Book of Acts," which he termed the "Second Book of Luke."

"I have a trunk full of beautiful pictures and charts," he announced. "I use them because you learn four times more with your eyes than from your ears."

"The Book of Acts," he declared, "tells of the ascended Lord and the descended Holy Spirit." His contrasts continued with the affirmations: "Christ came to earth to die; He went to heaven to live; He came here to make expiation; He went to heaven to make intercession. Here He dwelt in humiliation; there He exists in exaltation. On earth He came to make atonement; in heaven He is the advocacy. What Jesus commenced to do is told in the book; what Jesus continues to do is likewise indicated.

The song, "Marvelous Grace," it was announced, would be the campaign key song.

Afternoon services are to be held at 2:30 o'clock each day of the series which will be preceded by a prayer meeting in the reception room over which Mrs. Coons will preside.

The night service s will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Motorists, Here Is Crabbe Ruling On Right to Park!

COLUMBUS, June 12. — Automobiles may be parked along public highways only when the front and rear right wheels are within one foot of the improved portion of the highway, and not the paved portion and when they will not obstruct free passage of the road, Attorney General Crabbe today ruled in a decision given to L. A. Boulay, state highway director.

Crabbe said it was absurd to construe the law so as to permit parking with right wheels within a foot of the edge of the paved portion of the highway.

DEMILLE FILM IS SCREEN HIT

"Men and Women" Big Feature at Ceramic Theatre.

There is no hero, no heroine, no villain in this story—the characters are just men and women.

This title opens the new William de Mille-Paramount production, "Men and Women," which is the photo-play at the Ceramic theater today and Saturday.

"But they live in New York, the city which makes all incomes too small to live on," adds the next title.

"Men and Women" is a dramatic study of a group of young people who, through weakness and mistakes, and not through the inherent wickedness of one or the other, place themselves and each other in acute situations. It is the type of drama, which Mr. de Mille handles with facility and sincerity.

The story centers around a bank cashier and his young wife. His salary is not large enough to allow her all the luxuries she craves. The cashier's assistant also loves her and, in his desire to make her happy, buys her gowns and jewelry and entertains both her and her husband. The two men are friends until the husband, fearing that the gifts of jewelry will make her dissatisfied, asks the assistant not to give his wife any more presents. The assistant frankly contends that he can give her the finery she craves, that he can make her happy and that he intends to marry her.

In his desire to retain his wife's love, the cashier takes bank bonds to speculate in the stock market. The market drops, the securities are lost and the broker ends his life. The assistant cashier is suspected of having taken the bank's valuables and the husband, by remaining silent, can send his rival to prison. His confession wins him the support of the banker and the chance to begin life anew with his wife in the south.

For "Men and Women" de Mille has assembled a fine cast of players. Richard Dix, Paramount star, is featured with Neil Hamilton, Claire Adams and Robert Edeson in the principal roles.

The picture is an adaptation by Clara Beranger of the successful stage play of the same name by David Belasco and Henry C. DeMille. Henry Stephenson, Flora Finch and others play in support.

Representatives of the contractors announced at noon today that no further conferences with them had been asked by the carpenters. All differences, with the exception of the wage scale, have been adjusted.

plosion came a flash of fire, and burning oil spread about the vessel. The merriment turned to horror and panic. Captain Young ordered everybody overboard, the explosion having severed the rope attached to the dory.

Afraid to jump into the water, the terrified club members remained aboard the yacht, meanwhile adjusting life preservers to themselves, until the flames had practically enveloped the craft. Then they leaped overboard.

Meanwhile the flare of the burning yacht had attracted attention on shore and thousands of residents and visitors crowded the shore and hotel windows here and watched the fire. It was, according to one of the passengers, an hour before any vessel reached the victims clinging to the dory and floating about supported by life preservers.

The first vessel to come alongside the burning yacht was a coast guard launch from Longport. While rescuing the passengers, the coast guard men found the charred body of the McKnight girl near the still burning yacht.

Statement by Member of Crew.

"Everything was going fine with the yacht and the young people were having a gay time, the sea was calm and dancing had just stopped," said Lehmann.

"All of a sudden the forward deck heaved and a loud explosion followed. I was blown from the wheel and everyone within sight was thrown to the deck.

"The girls began to scream and run wildly about. Flames began to flash on the forward deck. The boys were pretty cool for young fellows who were not seamen, and while I shouted to the girls to be quiet, the boys began to tear up the deck boards to see if they could put out the fire. When the fire began to get too hot we all began to rip up flooring and toss it overboard so we could have something to keep us afloat until boats reached us.

'We worked as long as we could tearing up flooring, but finally the flames drove everybody to the starboard side and that gave the boat a heavy list that carried away the lifeboats on that side.

Passengers Terrorized.

"Captain Young kept moving about, trying to keep order but when the boat listed everybody became panicky and Captain Young ordered them to the port side so he could get them into the life boats there. Thinking they were going to get off, everybody rushed to the port side. This caused a counter list that put all of the lifeboats on that side under water."

The fire on the Crystal burned so fiercely, Lehmann said, that the passengers were terrorized.

"The girls seemed to have gone crazy and some of the men too. We had a terrible time trying to tell them what to do, with the fire getting hotter and hotter every minute we were trying to tell them how to put on the life belts, but their screams and shouting almost drowned our voices."

By the time the coast guards arrived, Lehmann said, the yacht had burned to the water's edge.

"Captain Young was the last person to leave the yacht," said Lehmann.

LARGE AMOUNT FOR ROAD WORK

The state road commission will probably have $600,000 during the next two years for highway maintenance. The above amount, it is said, will find its way into the state treasury as a result of the increased tax on gasoline passed at the recent meeting of the legislature. Other state officials are inclined to the belief that the estate of the road body is conservative and express the opinion that the levy will produce close to $800,000.

SEPARATE SCHOOL DISTRICT URGED

When the legislature convenes in regular session it is probable that a bill will be introduced proposing an independent school district for Newell. Sentiment in favor of the proposal has been growing here since the defeat of the bond issue for a new school building. The proposition carried here but was snowed under in other sections of Grant district.

During the term recently closed the high school was badly overcrowded and with the beginning of the term in September 40 additional pupils will be added to the roster of the school. It is expected that there will be a corresponding increase in the grade rooms.

THE HOLLENDEN and the FAMOUS CRYSTAL ROOM

ONE of the noted restaurants of the country, both for the sheer beauty of appointments and the epicurean excellence of the food served, is the famous Crystal Room.

Faultless service and an atmosphere of richness with back of it all a feeling of home-like comfort have ever attracted a distinguished clientele.

To your sojourn in Cleveland, the Crystal Room holds out an added note of pleasure.

In Cleveland It's The HOLLENDEN

There's more in this than seems on the surface

The contractors' position, on the matter of the carpenters' strike, is briefly this:

Costs in general—building costs among them are no longer rising; in many instances they are falling. To raise wages now would be to run counter to a well-defined nation-wide economic trend. When you do that, something happens. If you raise building costs, when everything else is dropping, people are quite liable to stop building. Movements of that sort spread. None can afford to have another "buyers' strike" start. We all remember what happened in 1920 and 1921.

If you raise the wages of one group in a community when the wages of others are standing still or decreasing, you increase the burdens of the other groups at a time when they are least able to stand it. You help the carpenters, but you hurt everyone else. Things apparently trivial have often a mighty influence on the economic structure. Towns have been made and towns have been ruined by a differential of a few cents in a railroad freight rate. Similarly, when you make it more expensive to live in a community you make it harder to live there — and easier to move away. It could very easily happen that to give the carpenters what they want might prove a very bad thing for them, as well as for the community.

When the public sees how deep this thing goes into their own lives, there will be a public demand for arbitration of the carpenters strike. The contractors feel it should be arbitrated.

INDUSTRIES UNITE TO SAVE FORESTS

Board Is Named to Avert Lumber Waste.

Washington.—A nation-wide movement to conserve the lumber resources of the United States was started by the appointment of a conservation committee, of which Secretary Hoover has agreed to act as chairman. The committee is to make a thorough study of the wood-using industries and report at a conference to be held next fall. One of the big objects sought is to obtain closer co-operation in insuring full use of all timber cut.

The committee comprises representatives of the railways, the paper and pulp industry, purchasing agents of the country, wood-using industries, lumber manufacturers and retailers, architects and contractors, the American Engineering council and the national farmer organizations.

A preliminary conference, called by Secretary Hoover, has been in session here for some time and it was voted that definite action to bring about conservation was essential to the best interests of the nation. At the close of the conference the situation was summed up by John V. W. Reynders of New York, who represented the American Engineering council.

"The United States," he said, "has been living in a fool's paradise. Foreign governments are studying economics, and unless we take the same step economy measures will be forced upon us. Industry must look at such problems from a national standpoint.."

Voluntary Action.

Secretary Hoover explained what the Department of Commerce had been developing during the last three years with industry to eliminate waste. It has been found possible, he said, to obtain practical results by voluntary action, the function of the government being to bring together the industries that they might unite for such action as would serve the common interest.

Secretary Hoover said the fact that timber was being cut at a rate four times faster than it was being replaced, called for immediate and constructive action. The problem for the committee, he added, dealt with the problems faced in making for economy of use after the forest had become a commercial product.

Announcement was made by Mr. Hoover that an anonymous gift of $25,000 a year for two years had been received, to serve as the nucleus for financing the investigations which the committee will undertake. He recommended that the program of the committee take the form of day-to-day operations, with studies being made of specific industries to ascertain the full facts, and then to be considered from the standpoint of their relation with other industries, to the end that the by-products of one industry might be utilized wherever possible by another.

One of the faulty functions of the present-day commercial and industrial fabric, Secretary Hoover contended, was that industries had not been brought together to co-operate in the national interest. Such co-operation, he said, would not only bring economy of operation of industry, but would result in a more efficient use of raw materials.

Paper Industry.

A report on behalf of the American Paper and Pulp association was made by Norman W. Wilson, president of that organiation. He said the paper and pulp industry was tackling the problem from two ends. More and more mills were employing foresters to secure expert treatment of the timber and to reproduce their wood supplies, he said. At the finishing end of the industry increasing attention was being given to research for new uses for by-products.

Hugh P. Baker of New York, secretary of the same organization, said that while the paper and pulp industry consumed 6,000,000 cords of wood annually, this was but 4 per cent of the timber cut in the United States. The value of paper products and paper goods is about $24.000,000.000.

The industry, he said, has two problems, one technical and the other commercial. In the technical field decay of wood and utilization of decayed woods has been combated by the forest products laboratory. Hardwoods were being used with success where they were not formerly usable and where a decade ago foresters regarded the hardwood trees as a nuisance.

Howard Andrews of Nashville, representing the National Association of Railroad Tie Producers, said that through the use of wood preservative the industry already had reduced the replacement of ties from a rate of 325 per mile in 1920 to 90 per mile in 1924.

Col. W. B. Greely of the federal forest service, who will act as vice chairman of the new conservation committee, argued for the establishment of some sort of clearing house and guiding agency to aid in the conservation desired.

Woman Quotes Bible In Argument Against Bobbed Hair Craze

BOSTON—"If a woman have long hair it is a glory to her." This quotation from St. Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians was cited by Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford, assistant Bible teacher at Tremont temple, to show that the Bible is against bobbed hair.

"Bobbed hair needs less care, but that it is an addition to the appearance is questionable in the minds of many," she added.

"It is mannish in many ways, it has become the fashion, and as such it will last a short time only—until long hair again comes into its former glory.

NEW STATE PARK LAND SURVEYED

Fifty Foot Highway to be Maintained Around Lake.

A survey of the water line of the new state park in Hanover township, just finished by Surveyor Edward Phelps of the county surveyors' office, shows there will be a 10 mile drive around the big pond when the lake is "filled."

This lake will be fed by three streams and many fresh water springs, which will insure a maximum depth throughout the year.

It has been proposed by the state highway department that a 50-foot road be maintained at all times around the 10-mile water line, and that no encroachment upon this road will be permitted at any season of the year. This plan is different from that usually found about state parks where land owners refuse to permit motorists to drive to the water line. Sufficient ground is being purchased by the state to insure a 50 foot road around the water line, so that free access to the water will be possible at all seasons of the year.

There will be two islands in the lake, the survey shows, and it is also shown by the map that at certain places around the water line, those who may go in bathing can go out for a depth of ten feet and then step into 30 feet of water.

The law passed by the last legislature authorizing the establishment of a state park in this county, and appropriating money for the purchase of land for such purposes, will become effective within the next few weeks. In order that no time shall be lost in taking title to the acreage, an abstract of the entire acreage has been ordered, and this is now being made. The record for each piece of land to be taken over by the state will go back for a period of 21 years only, as another new law decrees that where possible errors in deeds have not been corrected, the deed as filed becomes final and without recourse.

Other state departments at Columbus are working on plans for this improvement, the first being the closing of the gap in the breast of the dam of the old Sandy and Beaver Canal at the east end of the old canal. With this closed, water will then begin to gather in the big pool, and within a few months a considerable amount of water will have accumulated. Within six months, it is said, the lake will be about full, and water will then be flowing through the spill-way.

It is not likely that any work on the fish hatchery buildings will be done this year, although it is likely some preliminary labor will be performed with this end in view. The hatchery building is to be erected east of the breast.

The board of county commissioners have discussed the improved highway connections from the north, south, east and west, and several of these highways may be built next year. The first will probably extend from the west end of the paved road at the county home west to Alexander and North Georgetown.

The road from Winona south is also a short one to improve, and as this road is of importance to those driving from the north part of the county.

SEGER FUEL MINE IS OPERATING

Between eight and 10 cars of coal are being loaded daily at the mines of the Seger Fuel company at West Point, the mine working six days last week, and because of a "fall" in the mine a number of men were employed last Sunday clearing the tracks.

It is declared that between 50 and 100 men are now employed by the company, and that very soon a new vein of coal will have to be opened.

Resumption of this mine is giving employment to people residing both in Lisbon and about West Point, although a number of miners moved from the West Point field when the mine suspended April last year.

Double Wedding Here.

McCaughtry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McDevitt, also of Lisbon, were married.

The quartet were the first to enter the office of Probate Judge Lodge Riddle when the office opened Thursday morning, and after the licenses were issued they drove to the parsonage of the United Presbyterian church and were married.

The Customer Be—Pleased!

A certain business man once stated the above caption quite differently. Instead of pleased, he said damned. Perhaps he had never heard of the Golden Rule.

A merchant once said, "The customer is always right." Quite a difference. It is obvious that either customer or merchant can be wrong, but we prefer always to give the customer the benefit of the doubt.

Our policy is that the customer, right or wrong must be pleased and we will go even to extremes to please him. This is a part of our Service.

Haskin's Letter

Such a team would lose out in a tug of war with the combined generating stations of the New York Edison system, and such a team would represent all the horses in all the cities of the United States or more than a tenth of all those on the farms.

The new East River Stations will be the height of seven stories and will cover an area 207 to 1,100 feet, which equals about four average city blocks. The building itself will cost approximately $12,000,000 while the cost of the whole station, equipment and all, will run to more than four times that amount.

To Meet Future Needs.

This plant is being constructed to make it possible for the Edison company to serve the increased population which New York City will have by 1930, but it is only a step on the company's plans to equip itself to meet the electricity needs of the metropolitan area twenty-five years hence, according to the estimates of the committee on regional plan of New York and Its Environs, there will be at least 16,000,000 people there.

The station will have nine gigantic turbo-generators, each with a capacity of 60,000 kilowatts, or 80,000 horsepower, which is 10,000 kiowatts greater than the largest single unit machine now in operation. Additional equipment will bring up the total capacity of the station to 700,000 kilowatts.

Each of the giant generators will weight 1,182,500 pounds and as it is a physical impossibility to ship one of the units complete they will be assembled at the station. Even then it will be necessary to handle weights up to 185 tons, and for this purpose two traveling cranes, each with a carrying capacity of 200 tons, will be installed in the turbine room.

Operating at capacity the station will require for steam condensing purposes twice as much water as is brought down through the Catskill Aqueduct to the city. However, it will not use city water but will get its supply from East river, taking 800,000 gallons from the river each minute and returning it the next minute. Thus there will be pubped into and out of the station every 24 hours a total of 1,500,000,000 gallons of water.

The station will have ten boilers, each with a normal capacity of 1,550 horsepower, but through the use of the water cooled side walls it will be possible to operate the boilers at increases in efficiency never heretofore attained. Above the boilers will be located the economizers for cooling the escaping gases down to the lowest possible temperature before discharge into the atmosphere. Steam will be fed to the turbines from the boilers at 350 pounds pressure and 700 degrees temperture.

The Edison company, by the way, was the first central station of the kind in the world to use the steam turbines which are now universal. In its new plant it promises to introduce again improved devices and methods that will mark a decided advance in the electrical generating industry.

How Coal Will Be Handled.

Obviously the fuel requirements of the East River station will be enormous and one of the most interesting features of the plant will be the arrangement for handling coal. With all the coal that will be consumed not a ton, nor a ton of the ashes that are created, will pass over a New York City street or alley.

The fuel will be brought to the station in ocean going freighters of 5000 tons capacity, and by the use of traveling coal handling towers along the river front the coal will be unloaded directly from the vessels at the rate of 500 tons per hour. Each tower will be equipped with a two-ton bucket which will make two round trips a minute, lifting the coal from the ship and dumping it into one of the crushers to be prepared for the furnace. From that point the coal will be conveyed on belts through weigh-bins to bunkers immediately in front of each of the boilers, and it will then be fed automatically into the furnaces.

The amount of coal that will be consumed when the plant is running at maximum capacity would require at least 500 huge coal trucks to haul it and the ashes it maks. To add that amount of traffic to the already congested down town district in New York would be to complicate a traffic problem that is even now almost beyond solution.

Unloading the coal directly into the plant from the freighters and in a similar manner loading the ashes directly from the plant on river scows will, it is said, prove a most satisfactory answer to the transportation problem.

Compared with other plants in this country it is claimed that the new Edison station will ultimately have a capacity twice as great as the largest electrical generating installation now operating under one roof in the central station field. It will equal the combined capacity of the great Hell Gate Station and the famous Waterside No. 1 and Waterside No. 2 stations, which with the Sherman Creek station now serve all Manhattan, the Bronx, Westchester county, and part of Queens.

It was designed by Thomas E. Murray in consultation with the officers and engineers of the Edison company. The building itself will be one of the most impressive and most attractive structures in lower New York.

The initial installation of generating equipment will be completed next spring, it is promised.

Canadian Farmer Seeks Assistance In Securing Wife

SUTTON, England, June — Securing a wife for a Regina, Saskatchewan farmer, is too great a responsibility for Chairman W. H. Crosland, of the Sutton Town Council, so the farmer who wrote to him will probably have to use other means to find an English wife.

"I am making a request of you to aid me in getting a life partner," the farmer wrote. "I am 38 years of age, fair complexion, a farmer, single, wishing a wife of English parentage, age from 20 to 35. No objection to a widow with one child. Must be a good cook, good looking and of neat appearance."

Anti-soviet Movement Rapidly Spreading In South Russia

WARSAW, June — An anti-Soviet movement is rapidly spreading in the Caucasus, according to reports from South Russia.

One sensational report states that the entire government of the Nakhichevan Soviet Republic has been arrested. It appeared that the local Soviet Commissars, who posed as staunch Communists, were, in fact, disgusted upholders of the old regime.

For a long time they managed to elude the vigilance of the central authorities at Moscow, and, under the cloak of Communist activities, conducted an energetic propaganda for an anti-Soviet insurrection on a large scale.

Unemployed in Austria, in January, numbered 187,000, the highest number since the war.

LONDON—The Earl of MacDuff, son of Prince Arthur of Connaught, wants to see the real king of England, and can't be fooled by "Uncle George."

The diminutive Earl has been learning the national anthem and has pondered over the words, "our noble king," and insisted to his nurse that he wanted to see "our noble king."

"Look! There is the king with walking at Bagshot with the Duke of Connaught, the nurse pointed and said to the Earl of MacDuff:

"Look! There is the king with grandfather."

"Oh, no!" said the Earl of MacDuff, not to be fooled, "That's only Uncle George."

A nasty little moth, innocent looking though he may be, can and will destroy hundreds of dollars worth of clothes or fabric household furnishings in a very short time.

You can't arrest or punish this destructive animal, but you can end his career if you catch him. The best way, though, to protect your things against his ravages is to prevent his existence—that is, by having them thoroughly dry cleaned and using proper care before storing them for summer.

Don't think of putting your things away without these precautions—a moth gets fat on the dust and dirt in cloth.

An Entirely New Kind of Motor Car Travel

Changing our Transportation Habits

We predict that within a month after we have delivered your Chrysler Six all your ideas of travel will be changed—revolutionized.

Instead of traveling by train, nine times out of ten you'll travel in your Chrysler Six.

Scores of times during the year your Chrysler Six will take the place of the railroad because you'll prefer the newer way that only the Chrysler Six offers—

Simply because the Chrysler Six is so swift, so safe, so comfortable, it becomes unnecessary to subject yourself to the older method.

With the advantages that only the Chrysler Six offers it is the most logical thing in the world to take the road in your own car, whether the jump be long or short, whether for business or pleasure.

We predict that your Chrysler Six will make these changes in your ideas and habits of travel because it has already done so with thousands of owners.

They find not only can they travel swiftly in their Chrysler Six, but in greater comfort and safety. In many instances it also enables them to cut out the Pullmans and spend the night in their own comfortable beds at home.

All this is just what might have been expected when you consider the nature of the results which only the Chrysler Six delivers.

Swiftness—Ease—Safety.

There is more speed in the Chrysler Six than you'll ever use—even when you're in a hurry to make the next town.

You have command of a high-gear speed range of from 2 to better than 70 miles an hour. Few would care to let the car out to its limit.

You don't need this highest speed to make any journey in better time than other cars. Drive at an average of 35 miles and still you'll save time over others because the Chrysler Six is so alert, because it gets away so quickly and is so easy to handle, so sure in control. It is always first out of traffic.

Turns and rough roads need not worry you. You can take a turn in safety at 50 miles an hour and drive comfortably at 60 miles over cobble stones and rutted roads.

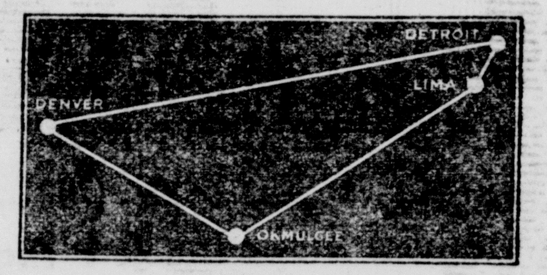
Roadability is one of the Chrysler's most remarkable features. It clings to the road as though it really weighed as much as two tons.

You'll drive in town or country all day without fatigue because of its easier riding qualities which efficient Watson stabilators have made still more remarkable by the elimination of re-bound shock on even the roughest highways.

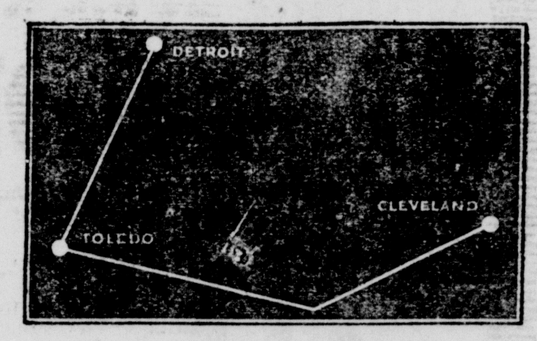
You'll drive always with the greatest possible safety because Chrysler-Lockheed self-equalizing hydraulic four-wheel brakes give you perfect control.

You'll find yourself freed of motor worries by the Purolator, which automatically and continuously filters all dirt out of the oil in your crank-case as you drive; by the efficient air-cleaner which keeps all dust and dirt out of your carburetor and engine.

We make one more prediction. After you have once had a ride in this car you'll always think of better transportation in terms of Chrysler Six. That ride is awaiting your convenience.



In Okmulgee, Oklahoma, is an oil man whose business takes him often to Denver, to Detroit, to Lima, Ohio, and back to Okmulgee. Some trip! He used to do it by train of course. Now he makes it in his Chrysler Six with ease and comfort and is an enthusiast over the newer and better way.



A Detroit man goes to Toledo frequently on business, then to Cleveland and back to Detroit. He used to do it by train, usually on the sleeper. Now he travels in his Chrysler Six, starts at his own time in the morning, makes Toledo and Cleveland the same day, transacts business in each place and is free to start back home when he chooses, regardless of train schedules.

Results that only Chrysler Six delivers, owners say, make this newer travel method the safe, sensible and comfortable way to get about.

Infant Chemical Industry In U. S. Has Rapid Growth

American Preparations in Increased Demand Throughout World, Bureau Says.

WASHINGTON, June — Among the industries of the United States showing the greatest development as the result of the closing of foreign sources of supply during the war, is the manufacturing of chemicals and products, according to the Department of Commerce.

"The exports of chemicals and allied products to foreign countries during the first quarter of 1925 attained an aggregate value of $36,034,000 and showed 11 per cent increase over the corresponding period of 1924," Charles C. Concannon, chief of the Chemical Division of the department, said.

Dominate Markets.

"This figure was higher than for any single quarter last year. Shipments of naval stores, paints and varnishes, explosives and perfumery and toilet preparations were all larger than during any similar period in 1924."

Throughout last year the foreign market for toilet preparations showed a steady increase, the producers of this country gradually gaining the upper hand over their competitors, chiefly in France. Toilet preparations exported during the year were valued at $7,251,000.

American tooth paste and other dental preparations particularly are in demand and actually dominate several foreign markets in competition, with home manufacturers selling for less, the department said.

Lip sticks, eyebrow pencils, hair tonics, facial creams, talcum powders and nearly all other American toilet articles are fast growing in demand in the world markets.

Of the major chemical groups naval stores represented the biggest change, having risen 43 per cent in value from the $4,251,000 export in the first three months of 1924. Naval stores include resin, turpentine and several other products.

Paints in Demand.

The export of pigments, paints and varnishes during the first quarter reached a value of $4,133,000, showing an 8 per cent increase over last year.

Sulphur, one of the commodities in which the United States is one of the leading world factors, improved 33 per cent in quantity and 50 per cent in value, from 93,400 tons, worth $1,443,000 in 1924, to 125,000 tons worth $2,165,000 in the first quarter of 1925.

The export of industrial chemicals in the first quarter totaled $2,470,000, a 1 per cent increase over 1924.

In the explosive group a 37 per cent increase in value was recorded, the total shipment having reached 6,159,000 pounds, valued at $1,315,000. Dynamite accounted for 60 per cent of the total.

Foreign sales of medicinal and pharmaceutical preparations continued on an upward movement, reaching a total of $4,826,000 for the first three months.

DAN CUPID THEIR BEST SALESMAN, SAYS CONVENTION OF JEWELERS

BALTIMORE, Md., June — Danny Cupid makes jewelry business pay.

It's little Dan "himself" who makes a living for jewelers and their families.

Jewelers from Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania agreed on that as they assembled at the Southern hotel for their annual convention.

"Around this time of the year," one of the jewelers from Pennsylvania said, "business picks up. Proud papas and mammas come to the stores to buy graduation presents for 'Willie' or 'Susie' or whatever their pride may be."

"Later," another jeweler from Delaware said, "the embarrassed young men start coming in and shyly buying wedding rings. And a little later folks come trooping in for wedding presents. And that's what makes things lively." He said this was the busy season.

A short, bald-headed jeweler from Lancaster told of a young man who was paying installments on four engagement rings at the same time, as a result of tangled love affairs. However, the young man is safe now, as he is married to the recipient of the fourth ring.

"After Christmas," one of them said, "business slumps, but later on it gets better."

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Prague City Council Regulates Sale of Coffee in Confines

PRAGUE, June — Prices in the coffee houses of Prague have just been regulated by the city council and aldermen.

Coffee houses have now been divided into three distinct classes. There are the luxurious ones, then the less showy ones, finally those used by workers, porters, chauffeurs, etc. Prices are fixed according to the degree.

These prices form a very important matter in central Europe, where people linger for hours over their coffee and read all the newspapers and journals in the place.

Record Crowd Watches Riley Nine Nose Out Trotters, 3-2

One Stolen Sack and Three Miscues Score Winning Run In Fifth

Marshall Reaches First on Booted Ball, Steals Second and Then Goes Home as Opposition Throw Ball Around the Playing Field.

Chester, despite its defeat earlier in the week by Laughlin, came back and trounced Trotter in a fast City Industrial league game on its own lot, Smith field, 3 to 2, on Thursday evening, thus strengthening its hold at the organization's top.

Errors, three almost in a row with a stolen base sandwiched between the first two in the fifth inning, gave the West Virginians their winning run when the score was 2 to 2 and two men out.

F. Marshall, in that fateful inning, drove to Herbert, who booted the ball. Then Marshall stole second base and reached third from Hunselman's over-throw. The ball was retrieved by E. Bayley, who relayed it wildly into the infield, it passing into the crowd between third base and the plate as the runner continued homeward.

In the previous inning two passes, two singles and a sacrifice fly had given the winners an outstanding lead, but R. Pollock made amends for his wildness on that occasion by doubling and paving the way for his and Parson's scoring.

With the score tied it was anybody's game and the pitcher's battle between Pollock and M. Cebula continued. Both had terrific speed and both used a change of place. An error by P. Cebula put Kinsey on in the sixth, but the next three men were retired in a row, two being struck out.

Then Pollock in what proved to be the final "bats" of the Riley aggregation Digman, Cochrane and C. Marshall as they appeared, fanning one.

Came then the seventh and the final chance for Trotters. R. Pollock led off, but M. Cebula, in his only walk of the game, put him on first base. As the runner eased off from the bag, the pitcher threw a bit hesitatingly to Digman, who let the ball get by him, and with no one out the elongated Trotter star seemed strategetically placed to score at least the tying run. But a great play by W. McMath, who had succeeded Potts behind the plate, when he ran back into the crowd and caught Parsons' foul made the break that perhaps saved the game. It was an outstanding catch and the big crowd went wild.

With one gone and the restive Pollock, "rearing to go," on second, the situation was still serious for Chester. A. Bayley assumed the swatting responsibility. He lined to P. Cebula, who assisted accurately this time to Digman, he having twice previously thrown wildly to the initial corner. This made the second put out and Pollock reaching third in long, sturdy strides, either elected to reach home or was "coached" to do. Anyway he gambled on a tie score and lost as Digman, throwing to W. McMath, completed the double play, and the Ohioans were licked.

Pollock, despite the loss of the game, was in there every minute giving his best, and that best was too much for Chester in all but the fourth, when the duo of passes and hits were permitted by him. But one other bingle was made off him, a single in the second by Potts. The latter made two in all, one being an infield drive which he beat out when E. Bayley, fielding it, slipped and fell. Pollock whiffed six and walked three men. His double and subsequent scoring paced the tieing of the score in the fifth.

M. Cebula was out to win and fairly "burnt them" during almost the entire contest. He fanned seven and passed but one man. He made one of the three hits which Pollock permitted and it was a healthy swipe, the drive scoring the second run made by Chester.

In fielding Chester had 39 chances and missed four, while Trotters had the same number of miscues in 28 offerings. In all the West Virginians had 14 assists, of which M. Cebula had seven.

P. Cebula had difficulty in locating first base and he put Parsons and Kinsey, the first two men in both the first and sixth on, but their successors in both instances were retired in a row.

Twice, in the fourth and fifth, M. Cebula was found for three hits, but only in the latter, when two runs were made, did scoring result. The only other safety was permitted in the second and was made by Herbert, who garnered two of the seven made by his team.

Both Pollock and Cebula did not allow hitting in four innings each.

Kinsey, all but scored in the fourth when, with the bases full and two out he raced for home, but a great throw by Cochrane in right nipped him.

Parsons, in left for Trotters and F. Marshall in the same garden for Chester, did not have a fielding chance. That a single fly was caught by Chester gardeners during the contest, Cochrane had two and P. Bennett one assist. But three flies were caught by Trotter men in the pasture, A. Bayley having two and Kinsey one.

J. Strobel made a fine catch of P. Cebula's line drive in the fifth.

Another record crowd made up of more than 1,000 spectators witnessed the contest. The spectacle of automobiles in the by-streets, the first base roadway, adjoining empty lots and the main egress at the conclusion of the contest stood out and again as on former games this year on Smith field, necessitated the utilization of Marshal Seevers as traffic officer.

F. Marshall, walking in the fourth inning, reached second as Potts beat out a bunt, Cochrane walked, filling the bases. C. Marshall flew to A. Bayley, scoring F. Marshall. M. Cebula singled to left, scoring Potts.

R. Pollock doubled to deep middle in the fifth. Parsons beat out an infield rap. A. Bayley drove to M. Cebula, who threw to the plate and R. Pollock scored as Potts dropped the ball. Heckathorne singled to middle and Parsons counted, but Heckathorne was immediately caught off first, P. Bennett to M. Cebula to Digman.

CARDINALS WIN FROM SELECTS, 8-0

The Cardinals defeated the West End Selects last evening at Sherwood by the score of 8-0.

F. Vess, the Cardinals' slabman, was in fine form, fanning 12 of the opposition. Stoffel started for the Selects, pitching good ball until the fourth, when he was nicked for five hits. He was supplanted by Dimmerling, who allowed but three hits thereafter. E. Dray made a great stop in the sixth of Stoffel's liner down the third base path, preventing the visitors from scoring.

The Cardinals will go to Kensington Saturday and will clash with the Kensington team again on the following day on the local lot.

STAGG FIELD MEET TODAY

Record-breaking Performances Expected by Critics.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Four hundred of America's greatest tracksters will run through their trials at Stagg field this afternoon at the opening day of the Stagg national intercollegiate meet.

Not only will the cream of the Western conference be seen in action, but athletes from every corner of the country will be there. Probability is that records that have stood for many years will be broken.

It is in the shot put, the high jump, the two mile, the half and the broad jump events that the highest quality of competition will be found.

Ralph Hills of Princeton and Glenn Hartranft of Stanford will stage the bitterest fight for supremacy in their final college meet.

"Gob" Russell of Chicago will lead the van of the high jumpers who will seek to set a new mark.

Charley Paddock's marks in the 100 and 220 seem fairly safe, though many look for Dehart Hubbard, the dusky Big Ten conference flash, and Tom Locke of Nebraska to come near setting a new mark in the century.

Gershe's Hand Broken.

CLEVELAND, June 12.—Benny Gershe, Cleveland featherweight, broke his hand in the seventh round of his bout last night with Charley Goodman of New York, but despite his handicap easily outpointed his opponent in the feature match of the first open air boxing shows of the season here. About 9,000 fans turned out, despite the cool weather.

WILLS-TUNNEY BOUT SLATED FOR SEPTEMBER

Negro, However, Must Win From Weinert to Qualify.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Harry Wills and Gene Tunney, only surviving contenders for the world's heavyweight championship, are to meet in a 15-round bout at the Polo grounds in September, provided nothing unforseen occurs in the meantime to affect their status. Wills, however, must either knock out or decisively outpoint Charley Weinert if and when the Italian hospital fund enterprise gets around to the matter of conducting its show, in order to qualify for the Tunney meeting.

Jimmy De Forrest, Polo grounds promoter, virtually admitted today that all of his plans for the immediate future revolved around the contest in question. He, like Rickard and the rest of them, would like to feature Jack Dempsey in a title bout before the end of the outdoor season but has come to the belief that it cannot be done.

A boiled cabbage may not smell as sweet as a rose but it tastes better. Therefore, De Forrest is prepared to play along with Tunney and Wills.

He expects the gate to run well over three quarters of a million and must pay the boxers accordingly. From an inside source, it was said that the Polo grounds' management is ready to set aside $300,000 for Tunney and Wills to split as they may see fit.

SWEDISH RUNNER ON NURMI'S TRAIL

STOCKHOLM, June 12.—Athletic fans today discussed the possibility of another match race between E. Wide, of Sweden, and Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, following Wide's performance in knocking nearly a half second off Nurmi's record by running 2,000 metres in 5:29 9-10. Four days ago Wide also made a new record of 8:27 5-10 for 3000 metres.

Wide ran second to Nurmi in a match race when the Finn established his mile record of 4:10 2-5 and was beaten by Paavo several times at the last Olympic games.

WIN 11 RIBBONS AT DEVON SHOW

Six horses—Golden Crest, Lady of the Evening, Sunshine o' Mine, Babe Ruth, Louise and Darling Ray have returned to the C. G. Wilderson and Robert Harrold stables in Leetonia, taking with them eleven ribbons from the horse show in Devon, Pa.

They were in charge of C. E. Dunlap, W. S. Groner and Joseph Whittle.

There were between 1,500 and 1,600 horses and ponies exhibited at the Devon show, one of the leading affairs of its kind of the country. The Leetonia horses will probably be shown at Sewickley, Pa., in the near future.

SECOND PLACE SCRAP FRIDAY

Second place in the City Industrial league will be the prize at stake on Friday night when Trotters and Laughlin clash on Newell field.

Trotters, losing to Chester yesterday, will give way to the Newell club should the latter win, and not only that, but will drop to fourth place if K. T. K. defeats Babcock-Wilcox in their clash at Columbian park.

By winning, however, Trotters will entrench themselves more firmly behind the leaders. In that event Laughlin will drop to fourth place if K. T. K. wins.

Santa Ana Is Advertised As Pacific's 'Gretna Green'

California City Ranks Ninth in National Census as Marriage Haven.

SANTA ANA, Cal.—This city gained national advertising as a "Gretna Green" in statistics given out by the United States census bureau, showing that this haven of hasty, or quiet, marriages has placed the Orange county marriage rate in ninth position among the counties of the United States.

No other county in California and only eight counties in America equaled the Orange county rate of 60 marraiges per 1,000 population.

Attention of the census bureau was attracted to the local rate and that of the 30 other "Gretna Greens," because the county rate so far exceeded the state rate.

Orange county's rate, for instance, was more than four times as great as the California state marriage rate, which was 14.5.

In some of the nation's "Gretna Greens," where smaller populations than Orange county's gave a larger marriage rate, even though the counties had fewer marriages, the county rates were as much as 13 times greater than the marriage race of their states.

Maryland Leads.

Cecil county, Maryland, had a rate of 210.5 per 1,000 population, while the Maryland state rate was but 17.1. Brooke county, West Virginia, recorded a rate of 144.9, compared to 12.2 for the state. Clark county, Indiana, had a rate of 112.6, compared to the state rate of 13.6.

Clark county, Washington, across the Columbia river from Portland, Ore., was fourth with 75.5, compared to 12.3 for the state. St. Bernard, Lousiana, had a rate of 75.3; Howard county, Maryland, had 66.9; Alexandria City, Virginia, had 63.1; Quitman county, Georgia, had 62, and then came Orange county with 60.

Investigating the reasons for these top-heavy marriage rates, the Census Bureau found that all the counties rating at "Gretna Greens" are on the border of states, with the exceptions of Orange county, two Colorado counties, a Maryland county, Monroe county, Michigan, and Davis county, Utah.

The coal industry of Great Britain is reported to be in worse condition than at any time before except during strike times, and coal prices in continental Europe and America are lower than in Britain.

He Starved Himself To Life

One sick spell after another had so discouraged Atticus that he decided to starve to death. But fasting made him STRONGER. Finally his ailment disappeared and with continued abstinence he soon regained both happiness and health.

Today more people suffer from over-spending than from over-eating.
